FOREWORD

WSC was founded in 1890. During the last thirty-four years she has forged steadily ahead, until today she stands on the threshold of an internal organization that will eventually raise her from a "small . . school" rating to the "large institution" class.

If the 1925 Chinooh serves as a reminder and helps to keep alive those cherished . . traditions which make W.S.C. an ideally democratic "small school", it is felt that . . a forward step will have been taken . . to insure their continuance when the . . State College is firmly established as a . . "large institution". . .

THE "HELLO SPIRIT" OF THE STATE COLLEGE

BY ERNEST O. HOLLAND

President

The "Hello spirit" has been a vital part of the State College from the very beginning. This spirit, first of all, represents very truly a real democracy where all the men and women stand upon the same social plane.

Students at this institution have no false notions as to what money or social position at home will be able to obtain here. Many of these leaders are compelled to work as janitors, or as waiters in our dining halls, in order to remain here. In some respects, the student who has to earn his way is respected more highly than those who have an excess of money.

The "Hello spirit" of the State College is eager at any time to honor the man or woman who does something worth while, on the debating team, in athletics, in dramatics, or in his classroom and laboratory work. Any student who shows capacity in some worthy endeavor receives honor.

May the "hello spirit" remain forever at the State College, because it enables the poor man or woman, coming from any obscure corner of the State, to win his way to recognition, and because it makes it impossible for the man or woman lacking in character to receive honor and hold a permanent place in the leadership of the institution.

THE "HELLO SPIRIT" BEYOND THE CAMPUS

BY MIRIAM GERLACH

Dean of Women

The "Hello spirit" at the State College of Washington extends beyond the campus to the new women who are planning to come to college. Junior and Senior women, selected because of their success in college life and their ability to advise, are chosen as Big Sisters for new women students (Little Sisters). Big Sisters write to Little Sisters and welcome them to the State College of Washington and make them feel that they have a friend upon the campus before they come. They meet the Little Sisters when they arrive and take them to the rooms assigned to them. They ask Little Sisters to go with them to the first festivities of the year, the Women's League party, the Y. W. C. A.-Y. M. C. A. Mix, and the Big Sister Walkout, and the Sunday after college opens they are interested in seeing that each Little Sister finds the church of her choice.

The Big Sisters answer all sorts of questions—to inquire concerning dress, the Big Sister responds with the dress slogan of the Women's League, "Simplicity, economy and suitability." Questions concerning courses she refers to the heads of the departments concerned.

The Big Sister system sponsored by the Women's League is one of the finest manifestations of the spirit of democracy at the State College of Washington.

THE ORIGIN OF OUR "HELLO SPIRIT"

BY OSMAR L. WALLER
Vice President

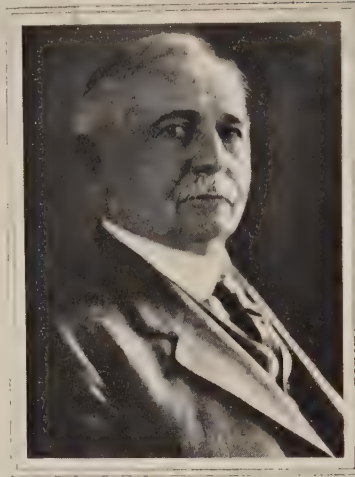

A look through the early catalogues will convince you that the State College was largely made up of farmer's sons and daughters, with broad, democratic ideals. They had not been spoiled by the high lights of the cities.

In those days the rank and file of the citizenship of the state was employed in productive enterprises. They were subduing the fertile lands of the State. The farmer and the irrigator were busy. An army of men were felling the forests, manufacturing lumber and shingles to supply the demands of the home builders.

These were the days of the cowboy and chaps, when such men as Roosevelt were developed. Young people did not have the time nor the incentive to become snobbish. They were just plain folks and they came to the State College well grounded in democratic ideals. The College is proud of the fact that these ideals have stuck.

On the State College campus, money does not make rank. Scholarship is what everyone seeks. The qualities of mind and ideals that make for leadership are the goal toward which all are striving.

WHEN THE "HELLO SPIRIT" WAS NEW

BY ENOCH A. BRYAN

President of W. S. C., 1893-1916

Before me lies an old and faded photograph, so dim that one can scarcely recognize the figures of the men who compose the little group of five. They are standing beside a little tool shop and are surrounded by piles of rough, dressed granite, each made to fit into a particular place in the first important building of the State College. The Administration Building plans have just been adopted and materials were being gathered about for its construction. It had been decided to build the foundation of granite from the State of Washington and the brick was to be made of clay taken from the rear of Stevens Hall and made on the grounds.

The faces of the men in the picture are serious. Not the foundation stones before their physical eye, but the broad and deep foundations which their inner eye of faith could see, was now engaging their attention. The foundation stones of which they were thinking were the group of teachers and scholars whom they hoped to call together and to whom they were about to intrust many things.

Today, after thirty years, we witness building after building rising on the hill. Laboratories, libraries, classrooms, shops and offices multiply. The campus is covered with eager youths. The dream of the past begins to be the reality of the present. Time alone will show whether the foundations have been laid broad enough and deep enough, and of material as enduring as the granite of the mountains.

THE SPIRIT OF OUR ALUMNI

BY HARRY M. CHAMBERS

Alumni Secretary

The spirit of loyalty that holds our Alumni to their Alma Mater is an inspiring thing. On many occasions in the past this spirit of loyalty has meant much to the security of the State College of Washington.

This spirit of loyalty is an inherent outgrowth of campus associations. There is no better place in all the world to develop this sense of loyalty than here at the State College. The size of the institution, its location, the ceremonies and meetings during the year, the type of internal organization, which in theory emphasizes implicit obedience to recognized leaders, the more or less ruthless subjugation of freshmen until they have been through a year of virtual probation, all tend to stimulate a sense of solidarity, unity and loyalty that no other factors could develop.

Here is a chance to create a spirit of loyalty that continues through the years, and it is such a contagious spirit that it increases as the years go by. For the Alumni come to know that the storms of life have been stilled, and the haven made more secure, because of the priceless heritage that was given them in the inspiring atmosphere of loyalty that hovers over these halls of learning. And, in the battle of life they fight true, and square, and firm to its highest ideals, and its loftiest traditions.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

DEAN JOHNSON

“AGRICULTURE AS A CALLING”

BY E. C. JOHNSON

Dean of the College of Agriculture

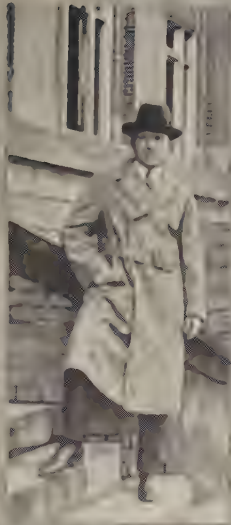

That there are 150 occupations for which a student in the agricultural curriculum receives some preparation was the statement made by a Land Grant College president recently. About 50 per cent of the agricultural graduates from the institutions he represented are farming, 36 per cent are in other agricultural occupations and the remainder are in the non-agricultural field.

While the graduates in agriculture from the State College of Washington are not yet found in so many callings, the fact that more than 30 occupations have been reported by agricultural alumni as the field for their efforts, speaks well for the well-rounded preparation for life's work which they enjoy.

With many fields in which to work, opportunities are numerous. That this is true even in difficult times is made clear by the fact that practically every agricultural student either takes up farming or secures some other attractive position immediately or shortly after graduation.

Our population is growing apace. More food and more clothing are needed every year. Our surpluses will rapidly grow less until under-production rather than over-production will be the problem. The strategic advantages will then be on the side of the producer and those whose business is closely associated with and an aid to his. The College of Agriculture today prepares its students for this enlarging and attractive field.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

DIRECTOR JOHNSON

"AGRICULTURE AS A SCIENCE"

BY E. C. JOHNSON

Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station

People sometimes wonder how the truths of science are discovered. How, for instance, did we come to know about the speed of light, the structure of the atom, Mendel's law of breeding, the action of nitrifying bacteria, the life histories of insects, the causes of soil depletion and a thousand and one other scientific facts? Our knowledge of these things has come in the main through conscious seeking after the truth by experiment and research. Early in the history of science, individuals here and there with brilliant and inquiring minds and some private means were the principal investigators.

Our own institution conducts research and experimental work along many lines, more especially in agriculture. It has an Agricultural Experiment Station system consisting of the main station at Pullman, branch stations at Lind, Waterville, Prosser and Seaview, and the Western Washington Station at Puyallup. With a staff of between 40 and 50, many of whom also teach in the College of Agriculture, these stations are devoting their energies to research work. What students are taught in agricultural classes is largely the product of such work.

What is taught in a state-wide way in the Agricultural Extension service depends in the main upon such investigations. Many of the best practices of farmers today are the product of Experiment Station activity. The field for helpful agricultural research and investigation is practically limitless.

COLLEGE OF HOME ECONOMICS

DEAN HARRISON

“THE HOME REVOLUTIONIZED”

BY FLORENCE HARRISON

Dean of the College of Home Economics

The day of the flapper is passing. She will be supplanted by a serious-minded, well-trained woman with high ideals who will revolutionize the home. Her new-found freedom will be expressed in manners and behavior, based on real character and ideals of service.

Dame Fashion no longer rules her, for she knows the best dressed women select their clothes according to definite art principles. Her home will express her personality and be a real haven of rest for the body and pleasure for the mind.

Her biscuits will no longer be the joke of the cartoonist, for her cooking will be based on a skill which comes from knowing principles and controlling them. Nor will her husband insist on “Pies like Mother used to make.” He will say: “Let us have home cooking, but our meals must be according to the science of nutrition.”

No longer will “woman’s work be never done,” for the management of the home will be a business where husband and wife are equal partners.

By scientific management there will be more leisure for the permanent interests of the home. Standards and ideals will be established, which will carry forward the home as a bulwark of the State and the Nation.

COLLEGE OF MECHANIC ARTS AND ENGINEERING

DEAN CARPENTER

"HOW VALUABLE ARE ENGINEERS?"

BY HUBERT V. CARPENTER

Dean of the College of Mechanic Arts and Engineering

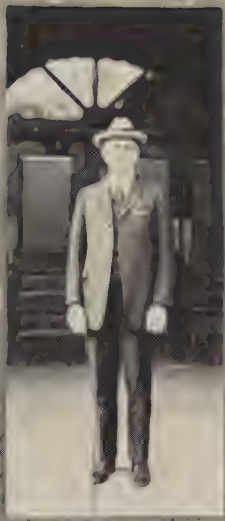

In many ways the engineer might be called the man behind the scenes in everyday life. Our water supply, our good roads, our telephone service, light and power, and automobiles, in fact, pretty nearly everything that has gotten us away from "the days of real sport" into the world where "something is doing every minute" has been brought about by the engineer.

Throughout the Northwest, there is hardly an engineering project of any importance that does not represent the activities in some form or other of one or more engineers trained at the State College. Any large engineering improvement, particularly a public utility, is commonly thought of as being valuable only to the company that owns it, while frequently the service rendered through the improvement has a value many times its cost to the people who are served.

When we consider these unmeasured and sometimes intangible values, the contribution made by State College engineers to the State takes on new and startling proportions. It can be easily shown that the entire cost of the State College has been returned more than once through engineering developments that originated with or were carried out by State College engineers.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCES AND ARTS

DEAN WALLER

“MAN IS AN ECONOMIC ANIMAL”

BY OSMAR L. WALLER

Acting Dean of the College of Sciences and Arts

In the beginning the College of Sciences and Arts consisted of a language course. Primitive man first talked his own language and then that of his neighbors. When he was no longer able to make all his computations on his fingers he developed mathematics. He developed alchemy, from which has grown the science of chemistry, which now touches practically all the industries of the world.

People died from infection, and until we had such a man as a Pasteur nobody knew the cause. The development of bacteriology has done much to prolong the life of the human race. The study of plants has developed into great commercial interests. Insects destroyed our crops until the zoologist went to work to study their life history, and with that before him man has been able to destroy his insect enemies.

Man originally raised what he wanted to eat and clothed himself in home-made garments. What he could not steal he had to buy, and what he could not carry away on his back he had to transport by some commercial conveyance, and here we have the origin of the great field of business and transportation. If you were to wipe out all the education given in the College of Sciences and Arts the whole industrial and business world would fall to the ground.

"WHEN OLD GRADS MEET"

BY E. E. WEGNER

Dean of the College of Veterinary Science

Bill—Well, hello, old top. Haven't seen you since we were at the old State College, fifteen years ago. Where you livin' and what you doing?

Jim—Well, you see, I took the Vet. course and—

Bill—That's right, you did—too bad, too, that all these machines came in. I suppose they ruined your business and you are fixing Lizzies now?

Jim—Well, hardly that. Guess you don't know very much about what happened to the Vets. You just look up and down the street in town and see a lot of autos and guess that there isn't any stock any more. You ought to learn a few facts so you wouldn't make a fool of yourself every time you express your opinion.

Bill—Well, I haven't paid much attention to other things since I got a job selling life insurance. What is the situation?

Jim—Guess there isn't another scientific education that a man can turn to as many useful purposes, since there are about a million dollars' worth of live-stock in this country for every practicing veterinarian.

Bill—Well, I had no idea that—

Jim—It's a great life, and I wouldn't have missed it for anything,—excuse me, there goes my telephone.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

DEAN CLEVELAND

"THE NEWER EDUCATION"

BY A. A. CLEVELAND

Dean of the School of Education

A short time ago a member of the faculty of the School of Education was asked, "What are you teaching at the State College?" When he replied, "Education," the questioner said, "I thought it is all education at a college."

He was right, in the main. A student goes to college to "get education," or in a different phrase, to continue his education in order that he may better prepare himself for his chosen occupation.

One of the occupations into which a large percentage of the graduates of the State College go, and into which they are going in increasing numbers each year, is that of teaching. To fit themselves for this profession they take courses in education. Education is both a science and an art. Both the science of education and the art of teaching have developed out of the experience of teachers and the work of a host of experimenters in the fields of education and psychology.

The School of Education has as its function the training of teachers of the different high school subjects and of principals, supervisors, and superintendents.

The enrollment of major students in the School of Education has more than trebled in the past three years, and at the present time the total number in this division of the College is two hundred and ten.

SCHOOL OF MINES AND GEOLOGY

DEAN HOWARD

"WHAT AGRICOLA SAID ABOUT MINING"

BY L. O. HOWARD

Dean of the School of Mines and Geology

"Many persons hold the opinion that the metal industries are fortuitous and that the occupation is one of sordid toil, and altogether a kind of business requiring not so much skill as labor. But as for myself, when I reflect carefully upon its special points, one by one, it appears to be far otherwise. For a miner must have the greatest skill in his work, that he may know first of all what mountain or hill, what valley or plain, can be prospected most profitably.

"Although the evaporation of juices is an art quite distinct from metallurgy, yet they ought not to be considered separately, inasmuch as these juices are also dug out of the ground solidified, or they are produced from certain kinds of earth and stones which the miners dig up, and some of the juices are not themselves devoid of metals."

Physical, chemical, and geological sciences and the arts of mining and metallurgy have made great advances since the above was written by Agricola in 1556, and the amount of knowledge required of the successful practitioner of these arts has correspondingly increased. Agricola's conception of the skill and knowledge required is equally true today. It is for reasons such as these that the State maintains a School of Mines and Geology to offer instruction and properly train young men in the important and intricate arts of Mining and Metallurgy, and the fundamental sciences, such as Geology, upon which those arts depend.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND APPLIED DESIGN

DEAN KIMBROUGH

"MUSIC HATH CHARMS"

BY HERBERT KIMBROUGH

Dean of the School of Music and Applied Design

The School of Music and Applied Design adds much to the attractiveness of college life. Members of the faculty and students are heard frequently in recitals and at the fortnightly vesper services. The musical organizations, consisting of the College Orchestra, the Band, the Chorus, the Glee Clubs, and string ensemble organizations, are heard in concert. The Department of Speech presents six evening plays during the College year and a number of one-act plays are given at the Assembly periods. Faculty members and students are also presented in readings. Much interest is taken in the Debate teams.

The Department of Fine Arts sponsors the art exhibitions which are brought to the College. There are also exhibitions of faculty and student work.

The Faculty Committee on Entertainments brings noted artists, musical organizations and plays to the College. Students have many opportunities to attend high-class entertainments.

Two national honorary musical fraternities have chapters at the State College: Mu Phi Epsilon, for women, and Phi Mu Alpha (Sinfonia), for men.

During the past year five hundred fifty-three students were enrolled in Music, two hundred forty-eight in Fine Arts, and two hundred thirty-three in Expression and Dramatic Art.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

PROF. DIRSTINE

"SCIENCE REPLACES MYSTERY AND WITCHCRAFT"

BY P. H. DIRSTINE

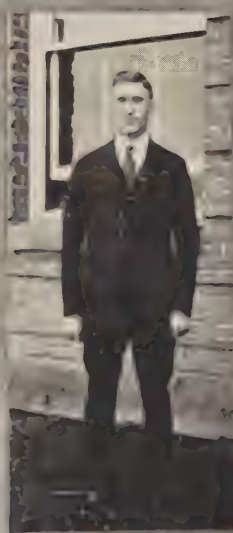

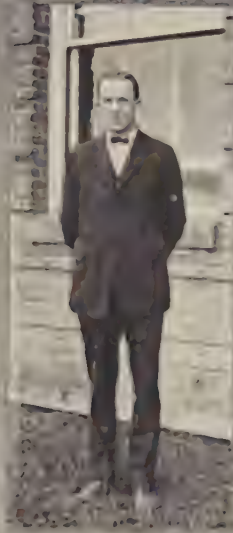

Head of the School of Pharmacy

The word Pharmacy is derived from a Greek word meaning "Potion," "Spell," "Poison," "Witchcraft," and was first practiced in conjunction with the Art of the Perfumer, by the Priesthood, the earliest record of which is a Papyrus of Sent, 3300 B. C., which contained directions for the compounding of prescriptions.

Mystery and superstition regarding Pharmacy was coming in the time of the Egyptians. They believed that the medicinal virtues of plants were due to the spirits that dwelt in them. A Roman preparation known as Theracia, which consisted of from 55 to 72 ingredients, was prepared by the body physicians to Nero. This contained among other things the flesh and skin, as well as the venom of snakes. The above preparation is also said to have contained centipedes, and spiders. Two months were required for its preparation, and it could only be sold after it had been inspected and passed upon by the royal physicians and wise men.

Gradually down through the centuries, from the time when the Alchemist worked with his individual retort in the back of his Apothecary shop, has evolved the Art of Pharmacy. Thus we find that the mystery, superstition, and witchcraft of past ages has relinquished its hold, and we find the Pharmacist of today looking into the maze of scientific research and advancement that is sure to come with the morrow.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

PROF. BOHLER

"THE PASSING OF FORMAL GYMNASTICS"

BY J. F. BOHLER

Head of the Department of Physical Education

A generation or two ago recreation was generally looked upon as idleness. Our colleges ignored the care and training of the body, and failed to provide wholesome and interesting leisure time activities. Today, however, physical education and intra-mural athletics are given a rightful place in practically all of our colleges and universities.

A criticism often made, that too much time and money is being spent to develop the few for intercollegiate competition at the expense of the larger group may be true, but physical training without interesting competition is a dull grind. It is intercollegiate athletics that furnishes the stimulus for keeping up general interest in sports.

The aim of the department is to interest every student in his personal health and in his physical efficiency. To accomplish this we are substituting for formal gymnastics a program of sports and contests for the student body as a whole. There is a decided advantage in this modern trend of physical training. Besides being a more popular form of exercise, a program of healthful sports gives the students something very definite to use in any community in which they may live after leaving college.

To carry out a program of this kind more effectively, the Associated Students this year purchased thirty acres, which will enable us to do much more extensive work in intra-mural athletics.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION

MISS BARBER

"THE COLLEGE GIRL NEEDS PHYSICAL EDUCATION"

BY GENEVIEVE BARBER

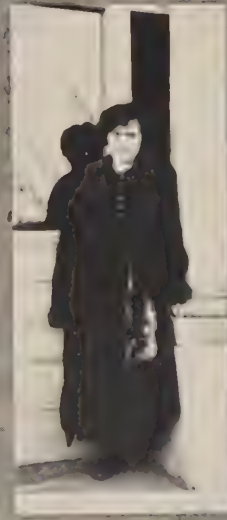

Head of the Women's Physical Education Department

The College girl needs Physical Education. This is generally accepted in the 1924 scheme of higher education for women, as evidenced by the curricula at Washington State College and other like institutions throughout the United States. Simply stated, we believe our "job" is to provide wholesome exercise for every student throughout her college course. With an enrollment of 771 taking regular exercise, the Department aims to give each individual student what she needs.

During the fall months women at Washington State College may receive college credit for supervised work in Interpretative Dancing, Hiking, Tennis, Hockey or Volley Ball. In the winter Gymnastics or Remedial work is required of Freshmen and Sophomores, together with either Interpretative Dancing, Folk Dancing, Rifle Practice, Indoor Baseball, or Basket Ball. When our spring out-of-door work starts, the student has a choice of Tennis, Archery, Volley Ball, Hiking and certain Track events.

There are 37 women majoring in this Department. They will complete a comprehensive course of study in the theory and practice of Physical Education that will enable them to take advantage of the opportunities offered in the demand for qualified teachers.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

PROF. AIKEN

"A HIGH SCHOOL WITHIN A COLLEGE"

BY N. J. AIKEN

Head of the Vocational School

Modern life's widening stream has made education a necessity in the solution of its problems. Rural and semi-rural conditions everywhere have made this impossible to many young men and women too mature for high school and not possessing college entrance requirements.

The Vocational School is designed to serve this class of people. It offers them an opportunity to acquire skill in that occupation which they have chosen as their economic connection with society. It is the finishing school of the specialist who cannot go to college.

These students are mature. They have tried themselves in the business world. Experience has shown them an objective which demands more training.

The Vocational School offers a wide range of training in periods of time from four and a half months to three years along the following lines: agriculture, horticulture, dairying, poultry, machine shop, automobile mechanics, cabinet making, printing, bookkeeping, stenography, dressmaking and millinery, cooking and household management. It offers a further opportunity to these same people to become a part of college social life. If ambition and vocational training have stimulated a desire for a college education, graduation from a three-year vocational course will admit them to college the same as graduation from a four-year accredited high school.

DIVISION OF GENERAL COLLEGE EXTENSION

"SOME QUESTIONS—AND ANSWERS"

BY F. F. NALDER

Director of the Division of General College Extension

Can a man or woman who has never had an opportunity to go to college, perhaps not to high school, find inexpensive chances for self-improvement through home study? If so, where?

Can ambitious folk group themselves together and learn under competent directions? If so, how?

Can a community obtain intellectual and social service from a state institution of higher learning? By what means?

We have the answers. They are all in the affirmative. The Division of General College Extension is the answer.

Anyone who will, may take a correspondence course, that will be sent wherever the mails go.

Folks who wish to study subjects in classes may organize themselves or be organized into such, and have instructors furnished them. During the past year over 2,000 persons attended extension classes in Spokane, Yakima, Wenatchee, Walla Walla, Bellingham, Hoquiam and Aberdeen.

Any community in the State may obtain lectures, musical recitals and motion picture programs, all of such type as to be of distinct educative and social value.

These are correct answers to the original questions.

"THOSE DEAR OLD COLLEGE DAYS"

A HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1924

IT WILL only be a short while now until "we sit alone at twilight thinking of those by-gone days," and we will muse and dream again through the four years of our college life as the class of '24, those four years that carried so much of toil and worry and so much more of happiness and daring escapades.

We'll remember vividly the pride we felt when early one morning, soon after our arrival, the "old stack" presented a new announcement and proclaimed to all that the State College of Washington had six or seven hundred more loyal supporters. To Leonard McElroy, Edwin Smith and Guy Swartz goes the credit of the daubs of blue and white representing the class of '24. We'll remember, too, that as Frosh, we instituted the tradition of giving the freshmen athletes, numeral sweaters.

Dr. Dirstine, in our Sophomore year, became our class advisor. As Sophs we won the interclass basket ball championship. But, the incident we'll remember most vividly in our second year is the battle that occurred behind Bryan Hall when we inflicted punishment on the Frosh class for not wearing "the green." The fierce engagement ensuing was wanton in its destruction of fountain pens, Eversharps, watches and clothing, but what was such a loss in the face of our clearly defined duty of Freshman chastisement?

Next, in our Junior year we'll think back on the Chinook, edited by Grace Troy, which carries with it some of the fondest memories of our college life. In the same year we had the privilege of entertaining the Seniors at our Junior Prom.

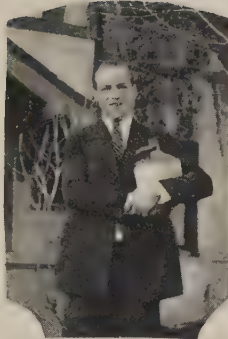

The years seem to have gone too quickly. Early in our Senior year we sent to all the High Schools of the State a copy of the Chinook of '24. Our last gift to the old school was a beautiful velvet curtain for the auditorium, this being our class memorial.

Haven't we forgotten something? Yes, those who guided our class as our presidents. First to guide us was Leonard McElroy, to whose capable leadership tribute is hereby paid. Then to finish out our Freshman year Robert Carey took the chair. In our Sophomore year Harry Jensen and John Zaepfel carried our colors through the period of supremacy over the Freshmen. The standard was intrusted to Robert Bucklin and Verne Hickey in the Junior year and well was it upheld. To close our college career and guide the class through the most important year of the four, Rex Turner and Clare Dobler were selected.

Each year we have grown closer to our old school; each year she has meant more to us, till now we are loath to leave, yet eager for the new conquest the world has to offer. May each succeeding class add to the achievements and glory of our Alma Mater in such a way as to forever uphold its dearest ideals and traditions.

VIRGINIA SHAW
Winner of W. A. A. Award, 1923

W. S. C.'s ATHLETIC CO-ED

The vigorous, outdoor girl, for which the West is noted, is typical of the representatives of the fairer sex who come to W. S. C. This is evidenced by the fact that every form of indoor and outdoor sport has its place on the co-ed athletic calendar.

In the spring and fall, outdoor baseball, hiking, hockey, track and tennis are the sports indulged in, while in the winter months basketball, indoor baseball, and rifle shooting hold the center of the athletic stage.

Every girl in school is eligible for membership in the Women's Athletic Association, after completing the athletic requirements. So many points are allotted for participation in each sport, and 150 of these points are required before a girl may be elected to membership.

The W. A. A. pin is given to members of the Athletic Association upon the acquiring of 400 points, and the coveted Crimson W sweater is awarded to girls who have won 800 points. This honor is bestowed upon comparatively few members of W. A. A.

Each year, as the crowning event of the athletic calendar, the Final Emblem is awarded to the girl whom her associates deem the most worthy of the honor. Not only is athletic accomplishment to be the essential criterion in the selection of the girl who is chosen worthy of this emblem, but her scholarship and spirit on the campus as well as in athletics, and the service she gives her college are points considered in the selection.

Virginia Shaw was the winner of the Final Emblem for 1923.

EXENDINE

APPLEQUIST

OUR FOOTBALL MENTORS

These are the men who develop the Cougar moleskin exponents, and who prime them for battle against the best the West can produce. To them the college is indebted for having put a Crimson and Gray team on the field last fall that not only knew smart football, but one which was a decided credit to the State College of Washington.

Albert A. Exendine, head football coach, came to W. S. C. with an enviable record from Georgetown University. He brought with him a host of plays, tricks, and ideas that have manifested their influence already in the style of football throughout the conference. "Exey" was a star on the Carlisle team of over a decade ago. His ability as a coach has been broadly recognized and appreciated by Cougar students, fans and gridiron enthusiasts. "What will Exendine do with the Cougars in 1924?" is not a matter of speculation with those who know the Cougar mentor's wizardry in developing winners.

Tom Whelan, coach of the yearlings, is a former protege of Exendine's. Whelan was very successful with the Babes last fall and his hobby found expression in the development of ends (Whelan was an All-American end).

Roy Bohler, assistant frosh football coach and freshman mentor in all other sports, is a brother of "Doc," and a graduate of W. S. C. He was head coach of athletics at Willamette University before coming to W. S. C. last fall.

"Hack" Applequist, veteran line coach and one of the best gridders that ever put on football shoes on the Pacific Coast, is "Exey's" right hand man. Hack has developed a line that should make scoring easy next fall.

"Doc" Bohler, the grand old man of Cougar athletics, needs nothing by way of introduction for his wide acquaintance and achievements speak for themselves.

MEN'S ATHLETICS

THE 1923 COUGAR MACHINE

By Captain "Verne" Hickey

The 1923 football season at W. S. C. was not all that we had hoped for, but considering all the obstacles in the way, it was successful. With the advent of a new coach there is usually a period of two or three years of building before success of any kind is attained.

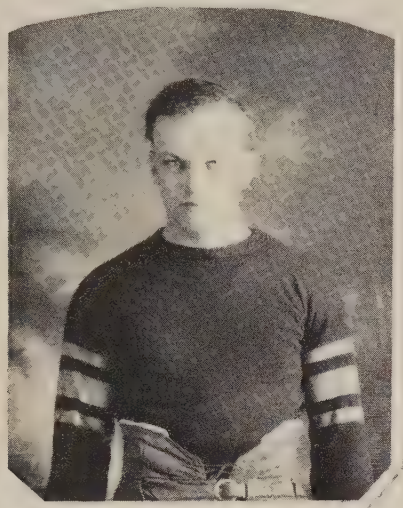

In the Gonzaga game we looked like a high school team, but in one short week, the spirit had changed and Idaho was lucky to win. It was the same thing in the California game.

Against Oregon we looked very good: the backs hit hard, the line charged and the whole team played good football. The team took a week's lay off, and this, in my personal opinion, is the one thing that weakened us. The gang seemed to go into a slump and could not get out of it. When we played O. A. C. it looked like a different team. We looked ragged, lacked fight, and didn't play smart football.

In the Washington game, the intercepting of one of our passes was the turning point of the game. Blunders and poor football did the rest.

Considering everything, we had a good season. Coach Exendine has learned a lot about western football; he knows his men better, and above all else they have confidence in his ability, and will fight for him. With the material left from this year's team, and that coming up from the frosh team, it looks like a great year for Washington State in 1924.

MEN'S ATHLETICS

GRID PROSPECTS FOR 1924

By Captain-elect "Duke" Slater

Taking everything into consideration prospects look very bright for a winning team on the gridiron next fall.

When practice starts in September there will be the largest number of lettermen fighting for positions that W. S. C. has had in years—a letter man for every position. In this year's Frosh team some wonderful material has been developed, and the younger men will all give the veterans a hard fight for their jobs.

All the men are thinking football now and are determined to make 1924 the "Big Year."

In Exendine we have a coach second in ability to none on the Pacific Coast. He knows football from A to Z and has a way about him that makes a fellow want to get in and give every thing he's got—and then some.

Exendine is very ably assisted by "Hack" Applequist and their work last fall, starting in with a squad which was considered the weakest on the coast, caused the eyes of the West to be focused on W. S. C.

Much is expected of us next fall by our Alumni and supporters. It will take work of the hardest kind by the squad, and the individual and undivided support of the entire student body, but we can and will "deliver" next fall.

Now—we have the men—the coach—and the spirit. Get behind the team and let's go!

Martin recovers fumble in Pacific fracas.

WASHINGTON STATE WINS FROM PACIFIC

The Cougars opened the conference season against Pacific on Rogers Field and easily defeated the Pacific Coast newcomers, 19 to 0.

The first score was registered early in the game, when, after an exchange of punts, Pete Kramer, Cougar end, blocked a Pacific kick and Brown fell on the ball behind the goal. The second and third quarters were scoreless, but in the fourth quarter another of Pacific's punts was blocked and the Cougars punched the ball over from the five-yard line. The final score came after the Cougar backfield received the ball from the kick-off and marched it down the field. Martin, Hickey, Marker and Zaepfel gained at will. Glann converted the only try-for-point of the game with a drop kick.

WE LOSE TO GONZAGA AT SPOKANE

Before an aerial attack that swept them off their feet, the Crimson and Gray gridders went down to defeat at the hands of Gonzaga, in the first big game of the year. This 27-14 defeat at Spokane was the first Bulldog triumph over the Staters.

Early in the game Gonzaga opened up a passing game, scoring the first three counters, two as a result of passes and the third with the assistance of a thirty-yard penalty. In the third quarter the Cougars came back strong, and a pass, Zaepfel to Johnson, netted a score. Again, in the fourth quarter, after a brilliant forty-yard run by Zaepfel, Bill Kramer crashed over for a score. Gonzaga's fourth tally came near the end of the game, when Cahoon, Bulldog tackle, recovered Davis' fumble on the Cougar one-yard line. From there Gonzaga ploughed across the line.

IDAHO WINS A FIERCE TILT

Although the Cougars displayed a wonderful reversal of form over the game they had played against Gonzaga the week previous, the Vandals won the annual contest from the Cougars on Rogers Field by a 14-0 score on October 19.

Both of Idaho's counters were tallied after long runs, one by Davis for thirty yards in the first quarter that placed the ball on W. S. C.'s one-yard line, and again in the fourth quarter when Fitzke loped twenty yards for a touchdown after receiving a pass from Stivers. Three times the Cougars punched and passed the ball down to within Idaho's one-yard line only to be repulsed by the Vandals' desperate stonewall. Twice did Hickey's place-kicks go astray. The "jinx," or the "breaks," seemed banked against the Cougars. The playing of Hales and Slater, and Zaepfel's punting, were the outstanding features of the game.

THE GOLDEN BEAR GETS A LEAN STEAK

With two defeats and a victory as their stock in trade, the Cougar squad journeyed to Portland to engage the lordly Bruin in mortal combat on Multnomah Field, October 27.

That game will long stand out in the football history of Washington State. In the first half, after a brilliant twenty-five yard dash by Hales, which placed the pigskin on California's six-yard line, the Cougars made for the native sons' goal, only to be penalized for off-side, from the one-yard line back to the six-yard line. From there, with one down to go, W. S. C.'s quarterback, Glann, elected to kick. Unused to the sawdust, his drop-kick went wide. Blewitt, for California, booted a drop-kick from W. S. C.'s twenty-yard line. The ball struck the crossbar, flew up in the air and bounded through. A blocked punt allowed the Bears to make the only touchdown of the game, which ended with the score 9-0 in the Bears' favor.

A VICTORY FEATURES HOMECOMING

The old grads received a treat in the form of a 13 to 7 victory over Oregon in the annual Homecoming game, played on Rogers Field November 3.

Oregon had held Idaho to a scoreless tie the week before and had played the conquerors of Washington State on the defensive most of the game. Their pre-game claim to victory was only marred by the stand the Cougars had made against California. However, the Cougars completely out-played the Lemon-Yellow during the first half, their first score being made by Pete Kramer. The second score came in the third quarter after Latham's fumble had been recovered on Oregon's seventeen-yard line. Following a series of line bucks, Glann plunged through the center for a touchdown. Oregon's score came in the fourth quarter. Chapman made a brilliant sixty-yard return of Hale's punt, only to be downed on the Cougars' fourteen-yard line by Berven. From there the Lemon-Yellow bucked the ball over.

THE COUGARS AND AGGIES TIE

Following a two weeks' rest after the Oregon victory, Exendine took his squad to Tacoma for the game with the Oregon Aggies, November 17. Notwithstanding the superiority of the Crimson-Gray in every department of the game except punting, the game ended, as the first quarter had ended, 3 to 3.

O. A. C. scored first, Gill drop-kicking from the thirty-five-yard line. Soon afterward Hickey place-kicked from the twenty-five-yard line. Then followed a succession of offenses against O. A. C.'s sterling defense, the gun keeping the Cougars from scoring at the end of the first half. The second half was largely a repetition of the first. In all, the Cougars piled up thirteen first downs to the Beavers' three. The work of Bill Kramer, as well as that of the ever stellar Zaepfel, was commendable in this game. Captain Hickey completed every pass that was thrown to him and the Cougar aerial attack, in the main, was spectacular.

THE HUSKY BEATS THE COUGAR

The last game on Washington State's schedule was lost to the University of Washington by a 24 to 7 score. The game, which was played on November 24 at Seattle, was closer and more fiercely fought than the score indicates.

It was a game of breaks, and the University was on hand to profit by each shake of the dice. It is generally agreed that a 10 to 7 score would have more nearly registered the true status of the two teams. Bagshaw's Huskies hit with terrific force and tackled with a certainty that spelled victory, yet two of their three touchdowns were the direct result of intercepted passes and the third a broken field run by Abel. A field goal by Sherman sums up the Husky scoring. Washington State's score was made from mid-field on a thirty-yard pass to Waldorf, who ran twenty yards for a counter. For the Cougars, Zaepfel, Hjer-toos and Kramer played a bang-up game.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL—1923

The 1923 Freshmen eleven, under the guidance of coaches Whelan and Roy Bohler, developed into a pigskin machine of formidable caliber. The yearlings brought home the bacon twice and only lost to the frosh from Montana, and that defeat was administered by a first year team which was superior to the Grizzly varsity and was the main factor in gaining a berth in the Pacific Coast Conference for the University of Montana.

The Montana defeat featured the debut of the Cougar Babes. The score of the game which was played on Rogers Field, Oct. 27, was: Montana 19, W. S. C. Frosh 6. The playing of Kelly and Sweet of Montana and the kicking of the latter were easily the high points of the game, although the Babes all did their stuff in approved style.

In their second game, the freshmen redeemed themselves after the fashion that warms the heart of every Cougar supporter. They defeated the first year men from the University of Washington on November 10, 13 to 0. The yearlings completely outplayed their opponents in the first half, during which period they scored a touchdown. In the second half, though the playing was closer, the Babes had the edge. The third quarter witnessed the second score for the State College frosh, which resulted from a pass, Koenig to Cady.

The freshman schedule ended November 17 with the Idaho game. The Vandal frosh were not the equal of the Cougar yearlings and came out at the smaller end of a 26 to 0 score. The babes gained almost at will and scored with little effort. For the Cougar frosh Koenig, Hanson, F. Kramer, Sweet, Cady and Roberts did stellar work.

WRESTLING—1924

The Cougar mat season opened February 8 with the Idaho meet. This the Vandals won when Allen accidentally fouled Hillman in the third bout of a draw match at 135 pounds. The score was 42-36, Dunbar and Bohlke adding to the Cougar score with two decisions and two falls.

On February 15, the following week, the team visited Seattle. Inexperience told and the Cougars lost, 33-3. The fight of the Crimson and Gray grapplers was evident although the size of the winning score was quite large. The lone three points for the W. S. C. men came as a result of a draw match between Bohlke, W. S. C., and Lange, U. of W., in the welter class.

Returning to Pullman, Whicker's wrestlers tangled with Oregon February 19. The meet was close and exciting. Keller, Cougar featherweight and Ford, Oregon 125 pounder, went four rounds before the heavier Web-footer was finally awarded the decision. Cowell, lightweight, won his bout, Dunbar lost by two close decisions. Bohlke won by forfeit while Waldorf lost by two falls. The final score was 46-30.

A new system of scoring was used in the return meet with Idaho, on February 25. Formerly a decision had counted 6, a fall 8, and a draw 3, for each opponent, two decisions or two falls being necessary to win a match, but the new system was fifteen minutes to a fall, which would count 1. In the first part of the meet Bittner of Idaho, 125-pounder, pinned Keller's shoulders to the mat, which gave the Vandals the lead. They kept the lead until King, wrestling at 175 pounds for W. S. C., threw the veteran Vesser in 21 seconds. The meet thus ended in a tie, 1-1.

The final meet of the season was held March 1 against O. A. C.'s congress of champions, in which the Cougars succeeded in chalking up 12 points (the most made against the Aggies by any team in three years) to the Beavers' 66. Crimson and Gray scores came when Dunbar won a decision (6) and split two draws (3 each) with Selfridge of O. A. C. Bohlke, Cougar ace, was unable to wrestle because of torn ligaments in his leg. King, wrestling against the mat wizard, Robin Reed (national 135-pound champion), lost by a fall and a decision.

The Cougar Frosh held two meets with Idaho, winning by a 38-32 score and losing the second (by the revised scoring system) 2-0. Whittaker, Walker, and Hawkins, 125, 145 and 175 pounders, showed varsity form. Those who wrestled in the Frosh meets were: Whittaker, Corkrum, Walker, Smith, White, and Hawkins.

BASKETBALL—1924

Review of the Season

The 1924 basket ball race was featured by the even matching of all contending teams. In the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference, but few games were won by walk-away scores. In this division the Cougars were contenders for the flag until the season was well advanced, and even after all hopes for a championship were gone, were yet seriously reckoned with by every team they met.

On January 10 the Crimson and Gray played its first Northwest Conference game defeating Whitman (for the first time in five years) on the State College floor 34-16. Next the Tacoma All-stars were given a 34-25 beating and the Montana Grizzlies were downed twice by 28-25 and 24-18 scores. Gonzaga came near defeating the Cougars in the next tilt when the final gun stopped the game with the count 27-26.

O. A. C. gave the Staters their first sip of defeat by chalking up a 24-19 victory on the Cougar floor. A series was next split with Idaho, the Vandals winning the Moscow game 21-19 and the Cougars triumphing in the Pullman tussle by a one-point margin, 17-16.

After a short rest W. S. C. invaded Montana. The first battle resulted in a 27-24 victory for the Cougars, while the second went to Montana, 25-23. On the return trip, at Spokane, Gonzaga was taken into camp by a 38-26 count.

Again the Vandals and the Cougars met and again the victories were divided. Idaho won the W. S. C. game, 38-23, and Washington State romped away with the mix at Idaho by a 39-19 score. The University of Washington made a victorious invasion and triumphed over the Cougars on the college floor, 26-20. The next evening the University of Oregon repeated the stunt, winning by 38-30.

Washington State ended the season with a trip, losing to the Huskies, 33-16, to O. A. C. by a 28-20 score and to Oregon, 33-29. Other games played on the trip were: Willamette, 23-18; Multnomah Athletic Club, 20-18, and Whitman, 35-21.

TENNIS—1923

The novelty of playing off the entire season with tie meets was the experience of the Cougar court men last spring. Two meets were held with Idaho and one with Whitman. Uncertain weather caused the dates of the meets to be changed in every case.

In the first Idaho meet, Billings and Broadbent lost the doubles, and Avery came out behind in his single match. However, the doubles team redeemed themselves by winning their single matches which made the meet end in a split.

The return meet with Idaho, at W. S. C., witnessed the defeat of the Vandal doubles players by the Cougars while Billings retrieved his solo match. The other contests went to Idaho.

Against Whitman the Crimson-Gray doubles team was again successful and Avery defeated his Missionary opponent in the singles. The Whitman racquet wielders took the rest of the matches to even up the final score.

In style of play Broadbent, for the Cougars, was perhaps the most brilliant court performer, but his game was erratic. Avery played one of the most dependable games ever seen at Washington State, frequently suffering at the start but gradually wearing his opponent down to a close, exciting, and often victorious finish. Captain Jack Billings' steady play and remarkable placing of shots was notable for deucing sets.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

For the second time in two years the Cougars finished a strong second in Northwest Conference baseball. The Crimson-Gray ball club won twelve out of seventeen games played.

The season opened in Pullman, May 5, when the Cougars took O. A. C. into camp, 16-3 and the following day (W. S. C.'s Campus Day), they broke up a pitchers battle between Ruley, W. S. C. and Young, O. A. C., in the eighth inning, and won 5-3.

The following Monday the Cougars crossed bats with the Whitman Missionaries and tasted defeat for the first time. The day after that, however, Jack Pickering led W. S. C. to a 6-3 victory. Pickering whiffed 12, while Sandberg led the offensive with a home run.

On Friday and Saturday, the same week, two more scalps were added to the Cougar belt when Montana was bested 13-0 and 13-2. Friel held the Grizzlies to three hits in the first contest and Ruley allowed but three in the second.

Following the Montana series came the Oregon trip. At Eugene the Lemon-Yellow was taken into camp twice. In the first tilt Pickering was found for but four safeties while eleven were retired by the strike-out route. In the second game Highton pitched W. S. C. to a 10-4 victory.

On May 16 the Crimson and Gray crossed bats for the third time with the Oregon Aggies. Friel pitched for W. S. C. and his team-mates found Young of O. A. C. for twelve hits which netted five runs, while the Aggies got but two tallies off Friel. The next game announced the arrival of the Jinx for the Cougar pitchers, who were all in bad shape, and the game ended 15-10 in favor of O. A. C.

Following this defeat Washington State jumped to Walla Walla to play the return series with the Whitman Missionaries. Whitman won the first while the second game was W. S. C.'s with Highton hurling the victory. The entire trip netted four wins and two defeats.

Back on home soil again the Cougars lined up against the University of Oregon for a return two-game series. The first ended 17-2 for W. S. C. with Cook pitching, and the second W. S. C. won by a 19-8 count with Ruley in the box.

The University of Washington had scheduled an Atlantic Coast trip and in consequence had arranged for a light schedule in the conference. They arrived on Rogers Field with not a single mark marring their lost column. Statewide interest was manifested in this critical series and when the first game started Friday afternoon, May 25, fans from far and wide were in the stands. Jack Pickering hurled for the Cougars and Gardner held down the slab for Washington. The game was tight, marked by superb fielding and a dearth of hits. Pickering held the slugging Huskies to four scattered bingles while Zaepfel and Beneke were the only Cougars to connect safely with Gardner's port-side offerings. The contest ended 1-0 in favor of the U. of W.

The next game was a different story. The Cougars shined up their bats and before the smoke of battle had cleared away they had found two University hurlers for twenty-one hits, while Highton, with phenomenal support, held the Huskies to twelve safeties. The Cougars won the game in the last half of the eleventh inning, when Hanley reached first on a fielder's choice, took second on Highton's single, made third on Lewis' error at shortstop and scored on Zaepfel's hit over third base.

Although the splitting of the series gave the pennant to the University of Washington, the Cougars cinched second place in the conference and won the distinction of giving the Huskies their only defeat of the season.

On June 4, the Cougars met the Vandals in the first of the two game series that ended the season. Pickering for W. S. C. and Marineau for Idaho, hurled a ten inning game that ended 3-4 in Idaho's favor. Both teams gleaned seven hits, but Idaho had the edge as a result of a first inning swatting bee that netted three runs. This count was tied in the eighth and ninth frames when the Cougars scored one and two runs respectively. In the first half of the ninth however, Guernella, the Idaho catcher, walked, was sacrificed to second, took third on Stiver's hit and scored on Foster's error.

The following day the Cougars came back, and with Cook pitching, defeated the Vandals in nine innings, 6-4. Fitzke allowed W. S. C. but six hits, but the State College men hit in the pinches while the nine Vandal safeties were scattered.

The baseball season of 1923 was, perhaps, one of the most spectacular that a Cougar team has ever experienced. Excellent fielding, particularly by Hanley, Cook, Beneke, and Zaepfel, marked the defensive play while the batting of Bray, Zaepfel, Cook, Ruley, Roberts and Friel was of big-league caliber.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL—1923

A stout brand of stick work coupled with a clever set of twirlers brought the freshman baseball team out on top last year. An ability to put the ball beyond recovery proved to be the greatest asset to Phil Jensen's yearlings.

Early in the season the Babes took the varsity to a trimming solely through their ability to find the ball. In the first game of the season the Vandal yearlings administered a defeat to the Cougar Frosh by a score of 3 to 2.

Upon the second meeting with the Idaho nine the game proved to be as close as the first and up until the last of the ninth a 3-3 tie seemed the only outcome, but a sudden rally with a well-placed hit netted another point for the Cougar yearlings.

The third game proved a complete walk-away for the Kittens and the Idaho Frosh were pelted from the field with a barrage of long and well placed hits that proved their undoing. The game ended with a 17-3 victory for the Babes.

The Moscow High nine offered little resistance to the Frosh who walked off with a 17-1 victory. Cheney was beaten twice during the season as well as Lewis and Clark in Spokane.

INTRAMURAL BASEBALL—1923

Nineteen teams entered the intramural baseball league when it was started by "Paddy" Zink at the beginning of the baseball season. The first two rounds resulted in the dropping of the Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Tau Alpha and the Vocational Club teams from the list of contenders. In the next round the Sphinx Club, Alpha Gamma Rho, Sigma Chi, Theta Xi and Psi Nu Sigma were eliminated, leaving the S. P. E. and the Kappa Sigs tied for first with three games to their credit.

The Montezuma Club, Beta Theta Pi, Independents and the Pyramid Club lost their second game in the fourth round, leaving seven teams to settle the argument. In the fifth round the Lambda Chis won a hard struggle from the Theta Chis, 3-2, while the Sigma Nus defeated the Kappa Sigs, 8-4, leaving them tied for the lead.

Four teams remained for the semi-finals. In the first contest the Kappa Sigs eliminated the Phi Delts and the Sigma Nus put the Lambda Chis out of the running.

The Kappa Sigs and the Sigma Nus met on the last Tuesday morning of school to settle the league championship, the latter winning the game, 3-2.

U. of W. 98 ; W. S. C. 33

Rogers Field, May 12, 1923

In the second meet of the year W. S. C. was handed a 98 to 33 defeat by the Purple and Gold tracksters, who took 13 out of 15 firsts, and finished the meet by capturing the mile relay. Peddycord, Loomis and Douglas, high hurdlers, stood out for W. S. C., as well as Leslie, who took the mile in the splendid time of 4:32½. The three hurdlers named took the first three places in the high sticks. Michel, Cougar ace in the half mile, was off form and placed third.

MONTANA MEET

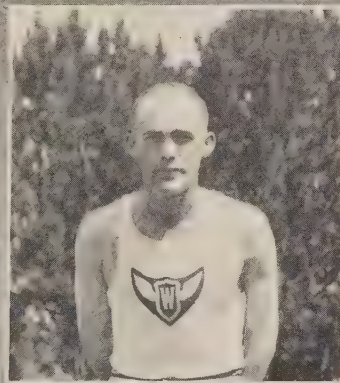

University of Montana 61 1/2; W. S. C. 69 1/2

Missoula, May 19, 1923

The meet with the Montana Grizzlies was the closest contest in which Doc Bohler's track men participated. The Cougars came from behind in the last few events and boosted their score to 69 1/2, which shaded Montana's score by 8 points. Andrus, Montana, sprinted the century dash in 9.9 seconds on a mediocre track. Michel was high point man for the Cougars with firsts in the mile and half mile. The Cougars took the two first places in the javelin and high hurdles.

COAST CONFERENCE MEET

Rogers Field, June 2, 1923

1923 was Washington State College's turn to hold the Pacific Coast meet. An unhappy fate sent rain on this day as well, and in consequence the meet was held on a soggy field, which prohibited the breaking of records. However, some splendid performances were witnessed.

California, with $43\frac{1}{2}$ points, nosed out the victory. The other participating teams in order and in points were Washington (40), O. A. C. ($28\frac{1}{2}$), Oregon (24), Montana (12), W. S. C. (11), and Idaho (6).

FRESHMAN TRACK—1923

The Cougar Babe cinder artists went through the season undefeated last spring. In the three meets in which they participated they showed their possibilities and Doc Bohler expects them to be a valuable addition to the varsity squad this year.

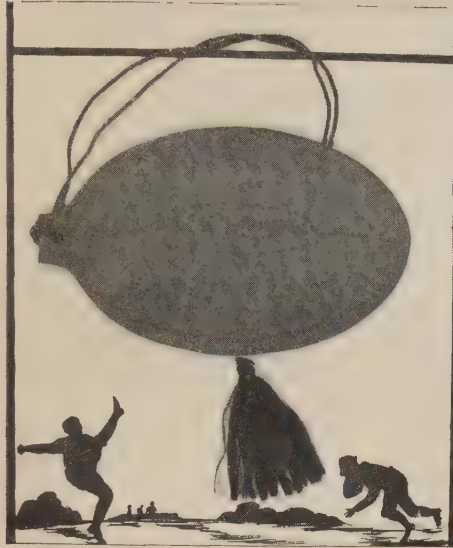

The first meet of the season was with the Idaho yearlings and was held at Pullman on May 4. The W. S. C. Frosh won without a struggle by the score of $71\frac{1}{2}$ to $53\frac{1}{2}$. The second contest, two weeks later, was with Cheney Normal on Rogers Field. It was merely a practice tilt for the fast Cougar Freshmen, who allowed Cheney only two first places and two thirds. The final score was 119-12. The final meet of the season was a return meet with the Idaho first-year men at Moscow on May 30. The Vandal Frosh provided somewhat stiffer competition this time, but lost to W. S. C.'s Babe's, $60\frac{1}{2}$ - $70\frac{1}{2}$.

INFORMAL STUDENT BODY DANCES

One of the most pleasant examples of the democratic spirit that prevails on W. S. C.'s campus is the frequency with which student body dances are given in the men's gymnasium. Throughout the college year it is a rare occasion when at least one such informal is not given during a week-end.

The two informals which are looked forward to with the greatest anticipation are the All-Ag. Barn Dance in the fall and the Engineers' dance, given as near Saint Patrick's day as possible. Other organizations which sponsor the dances are the Pep Band, Intercollegiate Knights, Scabbard and Blade and the Booster Committee.

These dances at the gym offer an unequalled opportunity for the members of the student body to become acquainted with each other, and also afford a pleasant relaxation from a week of lessons and classes. It has become a by-word on W. S. C.'s campus that nothing can equal the gym dances for real "good times."

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

THE OFFER OF THE R. O. T. C.

By Major F. D. Carlock, U. S. A.

The Reserve Officer's Training Corps is the visible source in which the officer personnel, needed to lead our citizen army in time of national emergency, must be trained. It was established under the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1916. The mission of the R. O. T. C. is to furnish a continuous supply of trained officers to the Reserve forces of the country, in order that we may be ready at all times to put forth the maximum of military effort upon short notice.

The R. O. T. C. is divided into two parts, the basic course, and the advanced course. The former, of two years duration, is required of all able-bodied male students. In this work the student is taught those things which a prospective non-commissioned officer should know. Upon completion of the basic course, he may elect to take up the advanced work, or else pass on into the unorganized reserve. In the latter case, it is expected that the training which he has received would be of great benefit, should he be called into service in time of emergency.

The advanced course, of two years' duration, is elective. In this course the student is taught those things which a junior officer should know. Upon graduation from the advanced course, he passes into the Officer's Reserve Corps.

Each year the War Department, by formal inspection, selects from the colleges of the country a small number to be designated "Distinguished Colleges" for excellence in military instruction. This coveted honor was awarded to the State College of Washington in 1916, 1922, and 1923.

THE CADET IN THE FIELD

Frequent opportunities are afforded the student enrolled in military to perform tactical problems in the field. The infantrymen learn the use of machine guns, while the engineering corps practice building pontoon bridges across Silver lake. Both infantry and engineers are required to take a course in map-making before they complete the basic course.

ALMA MATER

HOME GUARD DAY

Home Guard Day is celebrated every spring while the "rooks" are in encampment on Rogers Field. The upper classmen, attired in bizarre costumes, meet for a parade and grand celebration, ending with a "Military" hop in the gym.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

CAMPUS DAY

Campus Day comes in May, and is the first day of a two-day celebration, known as Campus Week-End. On Friday every student dons his old clothes, and the campus gets a thorough housecleaning, while on Saturday, the annual Interscholastic track meet is held.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

IDAHO GAME

The Idaho game is the first big football game of the fall, and is the occasion for much good-natured rivalry with W. S. C.'s neighboring institution. Last fall the hatchet was buried by the two schools, at a ceremony held between halves.

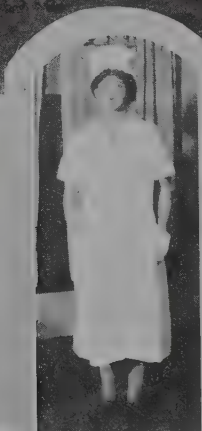

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

INITIATIONS

At initiation time the neophytes of Crimson Circle, Gray W Club and Alpha Zeta provide the campus with much merriment by their queer antics and mirth-provoking attire.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

MAY FETE

All of W. S. C. unites in welcoming spring at the annual May fete. Rogers Field is alive with dazzling color, as scores of pretty girls give tribute to the incoming season in a gorgeous dance-drama.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

FROSH-SOPH CONTEST

The Frosh-Soph supremacy contest is one of the big opening events of the college year. The pillow fight on the pole, obstacle race, sack fight, and the tug-of-war over historic Lake de Puddle, are events over which the two classes fight.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

CHAPEL

"Chapel" is the W. S. C. term for "student convocation" or "assembly." Once a week the entire student body assembles in the auditorium to enjoy a lecture or a musical program by some visiting artist of note.

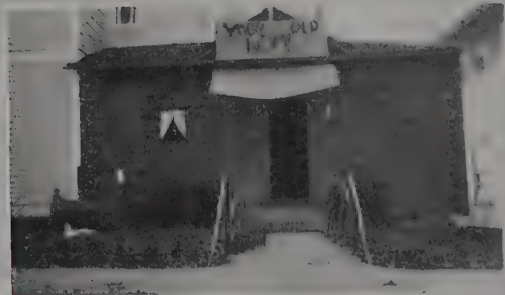

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

HOME- COMING

Homecoming Day each fall finds the campus in gala attire in honor of the returning grads. Trophies are given to the men's and women's groups which display the best welcoming signs.

W-S-C

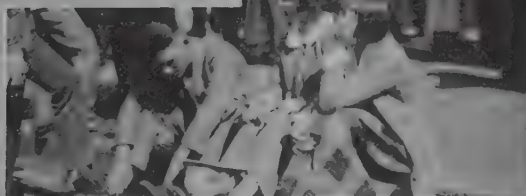

ALMA MATER

WELCOMING NEWCOMERS

"Meeting the train" becomes the favorite outdoor sport as the school year starts. Each trainload of newcomers finds a happy and exotic mob of older students thronging the platform to greet them and give them a hearty welcome.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

COLLEGE REVUE

Every fall the Women's League, composed of all the women students at W. S. C., sponsors the College Revue, which is given in the auditorium. Each group on the campus enters an act in the try-outs, and nine of these are chosen for the final performance. Of these, the best three are awarded cash prizes.

ALMA MATER

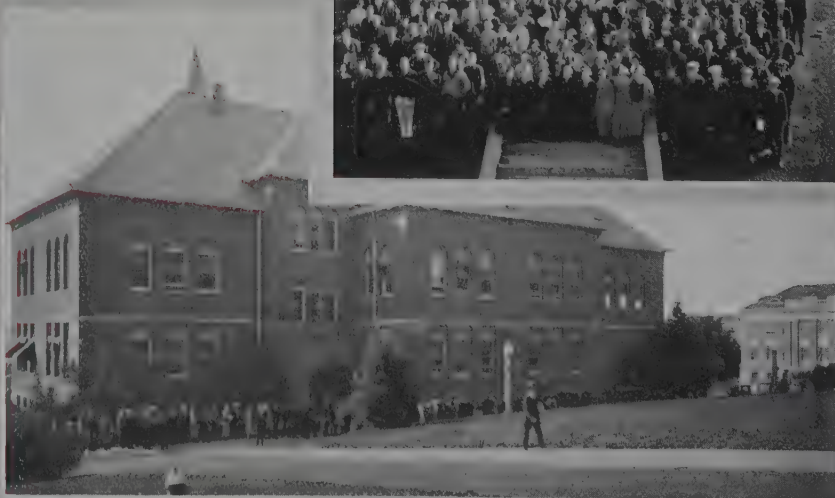

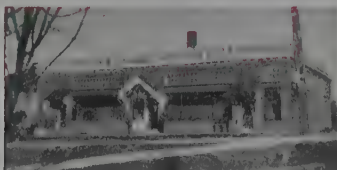

ROOTER CAP DAY

On the day that a W. S. C. athletic team plays at home, woe unto the rooter who comes on the campus without his rooter cap. The vigilance committee, composed of supple-armed youths, roams the campus in search of the unwary student who has forgotten the necessary crimson-and-gray head gear.

ALMA MATER

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

The student body of the State College numbers about 2100 students. They are organized into the Associated Students of the State College of Washington, and hold meetings regularly twice a month, during chapel hour. Among the enterprises they manage is the Students' Book Corporation, which last January moved into new quarters.

ALMA MATER

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

On two evenings of the school year the girls refuse all "dates" and gather together for a "wild time" at the men's gym. The Girls' Jambouree in the fall, and the Mortarboard party at the beginning of the second semester are strictly women's affairs.

W-S-C

ALMA MATER

HELLO TRADITION

The pass word among W. S. C. students is a cheery "Hello." This traditional greeting may be heard on the campus and off, between classes and during the noon hour, whenever one student meets another. The walk between College hall and the campus post office is famous for its "Hello" chorus between classes.

ALMA MATER

WINTER SPORTS

Winter sports are but one of the many activities in which W. S. C. has opportunity to take part. Skating, skiing, coasting and tobogganing provide ample opportunity for outdoor exercise during four months out of the year.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

Dramatics have held an important place among the student activities on the Washington State College campus for a number of years. The past year has been no exception, for the high standard for dramatic productions has been maintained very successfully throughout the season. The plays have been very well given and with credit to the dramatic instructors, Maynard Lee Daggy and Della Crowder Miller, both of whom are new to the college this year.

Mr. Daggy, who is head of the department of dramatics and public speaking, is nationally known as an educator. He is a graduate of De Pauw University and has studied at the Indiana Law School, at Chicago University and at the School of Expression, Boston. Mr. Daggy has been a lecturer since 1895 and has had wide experience in lyceum and Chautauqua work. He is a charter member of the International Lyceum Association. Mr. Daggy is the author of two books on Public Speaking and Dramatic Reading.

Mrs. Miller, who is well known in many parts of the world as the "Little Ben Hur Lady," is a reader and impersonator of great talent. She is a graduate of the State University of Indiana, and of the Boston School of Expression. She is a writer as well as a reader and impersonator, and has had teaching experience in Oregon and Texas before coming to the State College. Mrs. Miller's programs have been lyceum and Chautauqua attractions for a number of years, and she has appeared before the public in the United States, England, Canada and Europe.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

AN APPRECIATION

THE MUSIC Department at the State College of Washington occupies a place among music institutions of the Pacific Coast second to none. There are two outstanding reasons why the department is held in such high esteem. The first is that every instructor is a specialist in his particular department; the second being that excellent instruction in all branches of music is offered.

The music department in the past year has played a more important role in college campus life than ever before. During the summer, the Conservatory was remodelled, giving the department a much needed classroom and a larger number of studios. This enables better work to be accomplished by the entire music faculty.

The achievements of the various student organizations of the department have been worthy representations of the quality of musical instruction given at the State College of Washington. The Women's Glee Club marked its third anniversary with a most successful tour throughout the State, under the direction of Mrs. LaVerne Askin Kimbrough.

The Men's Glee Club, coached by Professor F. C. Butterfield, surpassed all expectations on its trip to the Coast, and at once boosted the School of Music and W. S. C. Both Glee Clubs presented remarkable home concerts, for the pleasure of the students and townspeople.

The college orchestra, under the direction of Professor Karel Havlicek, is a valuable means of developing and presenting the music talent on the campus. Several chapel periods during the year are devoted to varied programs by the orchestra.

During the past few years our Music faculty has gradually grown larger. At the present time the student is offered musical guidance equal to any available in the Northwest, and comparable to the best work done in the large Eastern conservatories. Higher and higher standards of work have been sought after by Dean Kimbrough, until he has succeeded after many years of painstaking effort, in placing on the music faculty, an array of talent of a higher calibre than most land-grant schools can boast of.

THE ALL-AG. CLUB

The All-Ag. Club, organized in the spring of 1919, is a consolidation of all departmental clubs in the College of Agriculture. The purpose of the club is to promote the social welfare of the students in agriculture, to enrich their knowledge from outside sources and to promote greater unity among agricultural students.

The main event of the fall semester is the All-Ag. Fair. Here the various departments of agriculture vie with one another for the excellency of their displays and exhibits. The All-Ag. edition of the Evergreen is published on this day. The evening of the day is spent at the Ag.-Bawl for which the Gymnasium is virtually transformed into a barn. Cider and doughnuts are served as refreshments and the programs are usually pictures of the farm. The day and evening are very enjoyable to the many students and visitors, making this day one of the big events of the college year.

In the spring of each year the livestock of the farm is fitted up for the show ring and sale. The stock is actually shown in the show ring and then is sold to the students at the "Mock Sale." The affair is always very successful.

THE ASSOCIATED ENGINEERS

The Associated Engineers of the State College of Washington is an organization which aims to bring about a closer relationship between the students of engineering. The organization is active in promoting the general interests of the engineering students. Many prominent engineers have been the guests of this organization as lecturers.

The Engineers' Evergreen is an annual edition of the college paper put out by the group. It is a feature number and has been remarkably successful.

The social activities of the organization include an all-college dance, All-Engineers' mix and an Engineers' smoker.

CHINOOK WIND

THE CHINOOK WIND

FOREWORD:

Halt! Gentle reader, you have now come to the section of frivolous fun, of defunct dope, and of deadly defamation. The following is scandal, impure and simple. If you have an ache this morning, if you missed your breakfast, if you have a timidity about facing the truth about yourself, the following section is not for you, kind friend. We ask that you pass over it hastily and with averted head and content yourself with a close perusal and careful scrutiny of the advertising section.

OH, HORTENSE!

If you have a deep-rooted sense of any kind at all, and resent the ravings of libelous writers, halt before you place your manicured tips on the next page. But, on the other hand, if you have a sense of humor, and can laugh as heartily at a joke on yourself as on the other fellow, the following pages are for you, m'dear.

HOORAY FOR CRIME!

366 days have come and gone, and there have been 52 Sundays, even in the Sigma Chi house, so we say to you
The Jig's Up.

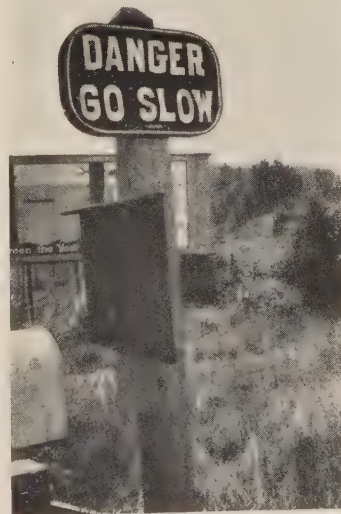

"After me the deluge"

Put on your galoshes, Noah, here comes the flood.

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the secret coups of Sproul on Your Ear,
Of the petting parties of Susan and
Bill,
And of Boot-leg Ben and his Volstead
still.
Of the little parties the Kappas flang,
And the doings of the Tanglewood
gang,
The banshees scream, the skeletons
rattle,
Oil up the Underwoods! On with the Battle!

Easi, Doctor!

It's thə trnth tʃat ɹurʃs.....
Ouz Wotot--
"If thə ʃoe flits, ɹut ɪt ɹn."
"The Trutʃ, thə ʃhole Trnth

THEM SOULFUL EYES

No, folks, this isn't Valentino, nor any of the other movie sheiks. It's just Eid, our fickle flapper follower. Around here he is quite a big man with the ladies, but in Hollywood, where this picture was taken, he is pretty small. When Eid skipped out last spring without telling anyone where he was going, and so recently after his unsuccessful encounter with Cupid, too, we feared that he might go away and drown himself, or get drunk on Bevo or something, so we sent our staff photographer out to follow him. And this, the photograph that was taken at a great risk of life and expanse of limb, is what our photographer brought back. We can breathe easily now, for the evidence is that Eid won't commit suicide for some time.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN SHOWERS

By "DOC" BRADDOCK, B.V.D.

In the land of Knob, there once lived a keen and charming dame who froliced under the no less name than that of Guadalupe of the Pulled Eyebrows and she was pestered by day and by night with the clamoring of amorous suitors who would fain have suited her, but all had flunked or at least been conditioned.

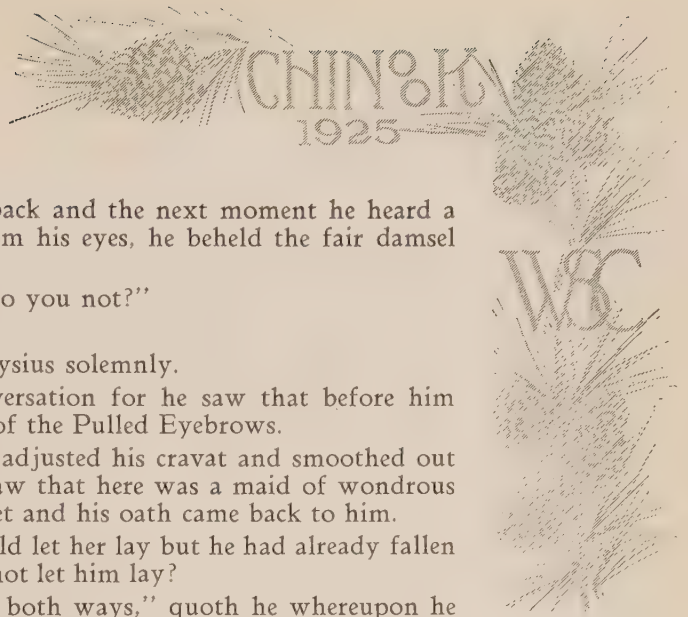

Now, it happened that one day whilst passing to the Bouts of there about, that young Ethelbert the Slick Jaw, chanced to come within the exact visionary ray of the keen and charming Guadalupe of the Pulled Eyebrows. She cast a glance at him and he caught it with much dexterity in his good right hand, and, waving to her, slipped on his new silk muffler and thereby broke his neck between the attic and the veranda. Chiropractic aid was summoned at once, but, owing to the fact that they had all joined the Bakers' Union because of the need, poor Ethelbert the Slick Jaw was caused to be shot to put him out of pain.

Now, it chanced or actually happened, quoting from that famous work "Child Care in The Home," that this same young man had himself one brother, who was known throughout the land as Aloysius the Almond Eyed. Great was the sorrow of the lad when he received the news of this brother's bereavement, and he became greatly peeved and bit his finger nails for he was tough as tissue paper.

"Ah," quoth he, with great dental display, "I shall look into this." And stooping to the keyhole he did so. "I shall make this Guadalupe pay as she made my lost brother pay and should she fall for me I will let her lay, Zerolene!" for that was the worst he could think of at the time.

So Aloysius the Almond Eyed set forth with his train consisting of six Pullmans and a Caboose.

Now, it chanced or really happened (see above ref.) that a great rainstorm came up during the great invasion of Guadalupe's territory and the little brooklets became rivers. With great difficulty, Aloysius the Almond Eyed advanced as his tracks were covered and there was no chance of retreat. His armour became rusty and he cursed Zerolene again and again as he tried in vain to move the joints. As he entered the town wherein resided the fair dame he sought, his eye perceived a beauteous maid standing on the curb, a torrent of water confronting her. Here was a fair prize, and slipping from his horse with a loud creak, he advanced toward her. Suddenly his foot slipped and he plunged face downward into the swirling waters.

A light foot was placed upon his back and the next moment he heard a rippling laugh, and, wiping the mud from his eyes, he beheld the fair damsel safely across the water.

"Ah," cried he, "You play bridge do you not?"

"Certainly," was her reply.

"We are kindred souls," quoth Aloysius solemnly.

There was a great lull in the conversation for he saw that before him stood the keen and charming Guadalupe of the Pulled Eyebrows.

Hastily Aloysius the Almond Eyed adjusted his cravat and smoothed out the crease in his armoured pants for he saw that here was a maid of wondrous beauty. She was no one to fall at his feet and his oath came back to him.

She was to fall for him, and he would let her lay but he had already fallen for her and in the mud, too, and had she not let him lay?

"It is a poor rule that won't work both ways," quoth he whereupon he rushed to the hotel to don his tux.

MORAL: Just because a man wears armour doesn't signify that he is a ham but helps him to be swift.

STILL WITH THE SISTERS

Alpha Delta Pi,
Beautiful and spry,
Yet we all must sigh
For we need a guy.

There once was a sweet Kappa Delta
Who had looks that would darned near melt a
Stone or at least make it sweltah.

Breathes there a man with heart so weak
Who never to himself did speak
"I'd like to step a Chi Omega!"

If you are a second ratah
You can't play with Kappa Beta.

The girlies from Stevens Annex
Are an accommodating bunch,
They seldom turn down any date,
Whether it's for a dance or lunch.

Do you know this Jay? It's Quarrel Half-akick, our fiddler, the guy who taught Nero how to play hot tunes. He is shown here just after he had engaged in a great feline massacre to relieve the shortage of fiddle strings. Has had dozens of offers from movie corporations because he photographs so well. However, Ben Turpin pays him ten thousand a year to keep off the silver sheet, so Quarrel's only public appearance is at vespers. Ben just couldn't stand the competition.

BALLAD OF A CO-ED

I've never seen an unkissed girl,
Nor never hope to see one,
But I'll tell the whole darned world
I'd rather see than be one.

THEYTAH YOU

Theta Upsilon's girlies step out with the profs
Though they'd much prefer juniors or seniors or sophs.
And why do they date with these rusty old jays?
Because the girls think the profs say it with A's.

JOKES THAT MADE KING TUT LAUGH

At the theater:

She's going to sing a solo—so low you can't hear it.
He's a bass singer—he sings low songs.
Are chorus girls coarse? Of course.

At the photographer's:

I'm afraid I'll break the camera.

At the dance:

Excuse me for stepping on you—but feet were made to walk on.

And those too numerous to mention of:

The Pat and Mike series.
The Abie and Ikey series.
The newlywed series.
The mother-in-law series.
The Zinh and Bohler series.

DEDICATED TO HARLEY BRYANT

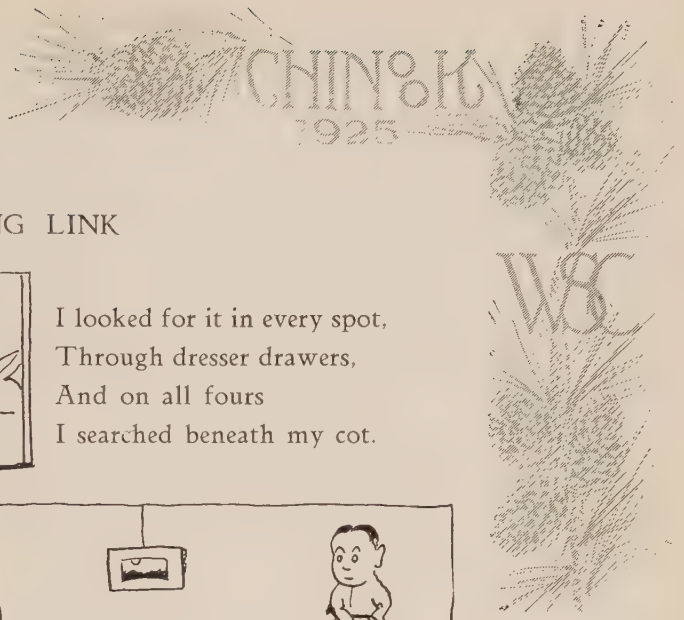

Once upon a midnight dreary,
As he sat and called her deary,
On a sofa made for one, but holding more;
Suddenly there came a tapping,
As of some one gently rapping,
Rapping at the parlor door.
" 'Tis my father, dear," she murmured,
"Only he, and no one more."
What cared he for her relations;
He was full of exclamations
Such as "deary does 'oo love oo's deary more?"
But her father tired of waiting,
Waiting, growing aggravating
Opened wide the parlor door.
O! how well will he remember
That cold night in bleak December
As he flew out twenty paces from the door,
And for life will he be branded,
Where her father's foot had landed,
Quoth the raven "Never More."

THE MISSING LINK

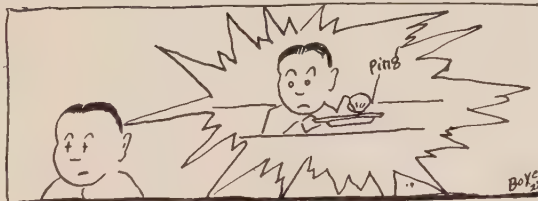

I looked for it in every spot,
Through dresser drawers,
And on all fours
I searched beneath my cot.

In all my pockets then I felt
But could not find a sign
Of anything that looked or smelt
Like that cuff link of mine

In every corner of the room
I hunted, searched and seeked,
And into every drawer I
Looked and poked and peeked.

But still I couldn't find it
And was about to quit the search,
When suddenly I remembered—
I'd given it to the church.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE SISTERS

By Sherlock Dupin, Famous Detective, who absorbs gossip as a blotter does ink. Sherlock writes in the first person, for he feels that he is the only person who has the right to express an opinion on the sisters.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Came across three girls crawling up the hill from the orchards. Each girl had a sack and in each sack there were apples. Deduction: There will be cider in the old homestead tonight. Saw that funny little short fur coat going down the street, and although the owner was rather tall and slim and had black hair her name wasn't Bernice. Bernice was away on a Glee Club tour.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The ash heap back of the A. D. Pi house was a mountainous stack of apple boxes, and small pledges were industriously pulling nails out of the boxes with their teeth. A joyous voice from the house caroled happily, "Hurry up worms and finish those paddles, we members need exercise." Gee, it's great to be an athlete.

ALPHA GAMMA

This is the house of a thousand wonders. "I wonder if my sheik is going to take me out this week?" being the chief one wondered. A pledge of this outfit told me she thought a bootlegger was a Russian dancer, but I said that he was just a rummy sort of a guy that didn't have sense enough to come in out of the wet.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

These girls live near Rogers Field, not so very far from the shores of Silver lake, in whose clear, cool depths they take their morning dip. They also are glad to be near our splendid golf course, which is noted for its excellent fairways and greens (of the dandelion variety).

CHI OMEGA

It was dusk when the back of the Chi O house loomed in view. It was easy to tell that it was the Chi O house; no other place on this footstool has such an interesting rear view. There are rumors that the fire escape has been used for other purposes than originally intended, but there is as yet no definite proof.

COMMUNITY HALL

The girls were talking behind their handkerchiefs and it was rather hard to get the gist of the matter, but after much straining of the aural appendage the whole thing resolved itself into this: One of the girls had to have her trunk moved so she took a boy up to the attic with her to get it. The horrid brutes stayed up there for an hour and a half and the whole hall has been giggling about it since.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

The girls kind of slip one over on the boys every once in a while, for I noticed that they have a lovely fire escape at the back of their house and the sisters were saying that they would use that means of getting out of the house again when another serenading gang came around. (Also there was a huge pile of empty milk bottles on the ash heap; at last we know who has been swiping the baby's milk from the profs' porches.)

DELTA ZETA

Lamp your lamps on a lamp and the girl you lamp will be one of 'em. The D. T. A.'s used to light their path, but now that each sister carries her own lighting system she feels free to roam as she pleases. Have the champion baby talker of the campus, which is quite an honor in our school of lisping coeds. If you like to be vamped, this is your station.

GAMMA NU

A very select gang. Tied with Alpha Gamma Delta for the smallest sister group on the campus. However, good things come in small packages, you know, and while we have no direct information, well—er—anyhow, they're a nice bunch of girls.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Loud shouts of laughter proclaimed the issuance of some new novelty as I slunk around the corner of the Kappa Alpha Theta mansion, and looking up I saw silhouetted against the shades two female figures sporting swagger sticks and posing as some imported manikins would. Quite a kick in the pants for our campus.

KAPPA BETA

Creeping up on the innermost conclave chamber of the house, which is just below the kitchen, is a fine way to get the goods on the girls. First there was much rejoicing over the increase in the volume of engagements announced. Speculation was rife, but the best bet was the next one would come from the Theta Chi house.

KAPPA DELTA

To peer around the junk heap at the back of the house was a simple way to avoid detection. Disguised as a broken sponge, I approached and heard the girls making comment on the new game the Kappa Sig's have taken up. "What did they mean by shouting, 'Three fingers flat,' and 'No fair shooting fudge kunckle?'" Don't worry girls, 'twas only an innocent game of marbles. They weren't even playing for "keeps."

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

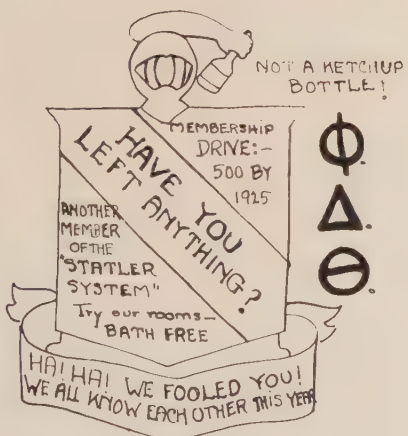

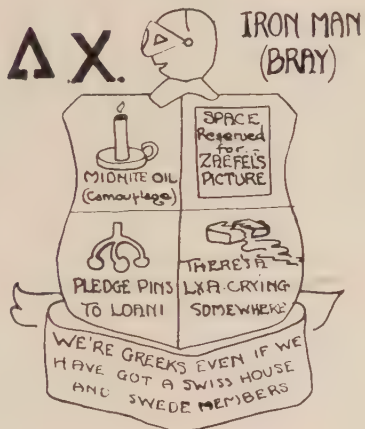

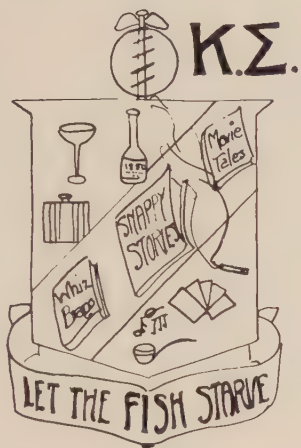

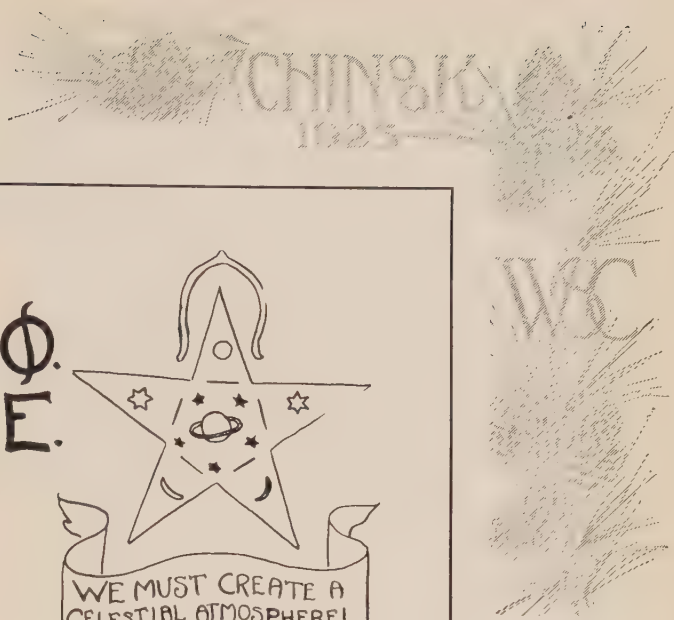

No, their house is not a barn, even though it does look that way from the outside. It is Noah's ark remodeled into quite a modern home. They are not serenaded very often because they live right across the street from Prexy, and as he is one of these boys who sleep out loud, the girls couldn't hear Sousa and his band when Prexy gets to sleeping soundly.

—W. S. C.—

Famous Sayings by Infamous People:

"We expect to begin construction on the Women's Building by 1977."

—Catherine McIntyre.

MCCROSKEY HALL

Noted for its pretty girls, reception hall, and preceptress. Inmates are divided into three classes, those who tip their soup bowls away from them, those who tip the said bowls toward them, and those who tip them over. This latter class is sentenced to Ferry Hall for three months after the second offense.

PI BETA PHI

The place where all the freak ideas start from. Originators of the Ponjola haircut, and strong in their proselyting efforts to secure more converts. Smoke Luckies and Blue Boars. Have a habit of singing men's fraternity songs at the dinner table. Addicted to antiseptic and fancy dancing. Most of them are nice girls.

SIGMA KAPPA

After this when the man comes to lay linoleum it would seem best that the girls do not lie on the sofa and discuss love, marriage, etc., with him, for somehow or other I heard the discussion while I was ransacking the ice box. It is surely too bad that there aren't enough men on the campus to satisfy the women. Come on, speak up, girls, and we'll come around.

STEVENS HALL

Prowling around rather late in the evening I was startled by the most ungodly yells and glanced hastily around to run from the murderer. Seeing that the coast was clear, but hearing the noises, which turned out to be laughs and giggles, continue, I listened. "O-o-oh I want my daddy," said one lonesome maid. "Baby come here and love me," yodeled another. This was too much for the human constitution to stand so on I went.

THE ANNEX

It's the easiest thing in the world to get dope on this hall, the girls can be so easily heard from the top of the old students' store. They were commenting on the recent expansion of their star marceller's business, her trade now including several men's houses.

THETA UPSILON

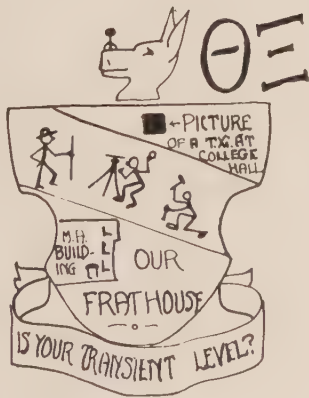

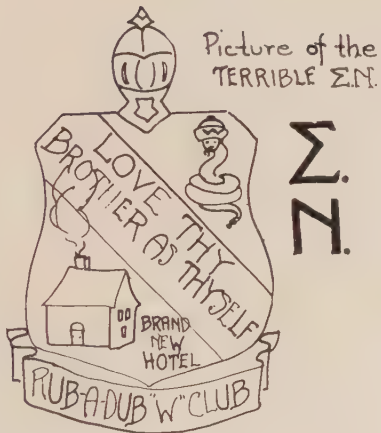

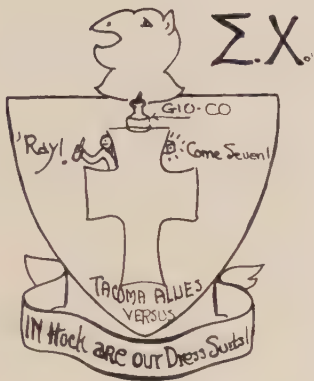

Somebody got the wrong dope on the Theta Upsilon gang. Half way between their "sleeping porch" and their storm cellar I heard one drowsy sister murmur, "I'm glad I saw 'Black Oxen,' because I thought the book was a text for stockmen." Oh, boy, what if she should get hold of "Tramping on Life." Nothing in their storm cellar except a tub full of assorted china ware. Probably collecting it for their new home.

HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY ON A MATH EXAM

To cheat, or not to cheat,—that is the question;
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The pains and agonies of an equation,
Or to take hints from my surrounding neighbors,
And by this knowledge solve it. To cheat,—to pass, —
No more; and having passed to say we end
The headache and the thousand sleepless nights
The stude is heir to,—it is a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To cheat,—to pass,—
To pass! perchance to worse! ay, there's the rub;
For in that next class what problems may come
When we have finished with this beastly toil,
Must give us pause: there's the respect
That makes the math exam so long of life;
For who would bear the quips and sneers of men,
The professor's wrong, the Senior's contumely,
The shame of zero grades, the Dean's hard words,
The insolence of others, and yet worse,
That one whole semester's work is gone for naught
When he himself might his promotion make
With a mere pony? Who would these fardels bear,
To work and sweat under a hard-boiled prof,
But that the dread of something on ahead,
The unsolvable problems of whose depths
Nothing has yet been learned, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear these griefs again
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus ignorance makes flunkers of us all;
And thus the natural desire for cheating
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And chances to cheat and easily get by,
With this regard are therefore turned aside,
And so we flunk with honor.

OUR OWN MYSTERY PICTURE

Can you guess whose foot this is? Who! Zena Rothrock or Leota Scott! Don't you know these girls well enough to—. You say it might be Bill Weingarten or possibly Clarence Rohwer. Oh! You thing if it isn't any of these, it is Charlotte Walker's, or perhaps Bernice Witt's. Well, frankly, that is a problem. Some have suggested Harry Elcock, Helen Campbell, or Frank Cleary. Whose foot is it, you ask? We must admit we don't know any more than you do.

THEN—

This is a reproduction of a picture which appeared in the first Chinook, published in 1899. It was in the humor section, and was entitled "Life at the W. A. C." (W. S. C. was then called Washington Agricultural College). We offer it as Exhibit A to prove that times have really not changed very much, and that "boys will be boys" at all times, even here at our bovine institution on the hill. Exhibit B is on the opposite page.

—AND NOW

The above picture was taken by our staff photographer, Lena Gainster, at great expense. It portrays, in graphic detail, the favorite outdoor sport of 99 44/100% of W. S. C.'s student body during the fall and summer months. The staff will award one second-hand barbed wire hairbrush (special model of Andy Gump's famous Healthy Hairbrush For Happy Heads), to the dumb Dora who can stand up and testify that the above does not recall poignant memories, pleasant and otherwise.

THE LAUNDRY BRIGADE

Our student body is divided into two great classes—those who send their laundry home and those who wash their own—and go to bed while it dries. The former are the wealthier class, the aristocrats who have two shirts and three collars. They send their laundry home, and Mother sends it back, together with stamps for the next batch. Sometimes, if there is room, she throws in a pie or a cake or some gum. Then, too, the mail man frequently gets rough with these little canvas clothes carriers, and we have pie a la B. V. D. It is a great scheme until Mother finds out that nearly all of the group houses have laundry rooms. After that we hock the laundry bag for a bar of Crystal White.

HOW TO ACT IN A FRATERNITY HOUSE

Leap Year Advice to College Girls

Never knock on the door or ring the bell when you visit a fraternity house. Someone might see you and think you aren't acquainted. Waltz breezily up to the front portal, whistling a snappy tune such as "She Wouldn't Do What I Asked Her To," if you think any enemy sister is watching you. No doubt she will think you are drawing one of the Valentinos for the evening's entertainment. Open the door gently for about a foot and warble "Yoo-hoo," just as though you were paging a ginger snap. This is to give warning in case some dumb Dora is stealing a kiss from some dumb Donald who may have left a box of those delicious confections on the davenport.

After you have entered, toss your goloshes somewhere,—it doesn't make any difference where, just so you toss them. This always shows that you don't care much about a mere pair of goloshes, as they probably belong to one of your sisters who didn't draw on the evening in question, anyway.

If the house-mother is hanging around, holler "Hello, Mabel" or "Hello, Angeline," or whatever her first name happens to be. If it happens to be one of these places minus a house-mother, beat it out in the kitchen and say "Hello" to the cook. She will appreciate your interest in her. If you don't know her first name, call her Bridget, or anything that comes to your mind, just to show her that you are at ease.

Always show a marked preference for the head of the house. If he doesn't happen to notice you when you come in, amble over and slap him on the back, accompanied by some such remark as "Buenos Noches, cutie." Nothing will fetch him over to your side like this. At the same time he will notice that you speak French fluently.

These preliminaries completed, trip lightly over to the fireplace, and expectorate with your most accomplished manner in the general direction of the fire. Everyone will notice that you are perfectly at home and will likely laugh, which will show that you are getting by or something.

If by this time your man hasn't heard that you have arrived, and subsequently fallen down stairs, pick out some gent in the far corner of the room and inquire in a loud raucous voice, "Where's my sheik, upstairs getting behind the flour?" This will let everyone in the room know you have a date and haven't just horned in on the preliminaries, and it is entirely possible that they will think you one of the funniest girls in college.

CARLOCK'S CRUSADERS

The Washington State College R. O. T. C. has for two successive years won a distinguished rating, and indications are that the triumph will be repeated. The Chinook Wind wishes to present briefly a few of the factors which have made our rook army outstanding.

Several views of the crack (ed) squad are presented. The first shows the rigid precision with which the men hold the position of attention during reviews. Incidentally, the photograph serves to illustrate neatness and uniformity in dress.

The man with the iron medal is a representative type of the splendid officers who have made prexy's army what it is. With his clean-cut face and the idealism shining from his eyes, he is an inspiration to his men in the gory battles on Rogers Field. He uses the whistle to summon the aid of his devoted followers when the Sponsors Club threatens to get the upper hand.

The unusual success of our rifle teams at Camp Lewis and Camp Perry has long been a source of wonder to the public. Now, for the first time, we disclose the secret of their superior marksmanship. It's all in the kind of practice they get. The William Tell stuff shown here is only one of the several difficult shooting stunts in which our boys become adepts.

In the last picture we see what happened when Major Cook commanded "Right Shoulder, Arms!" Number four man has his rifle a bit too far to the left, but as he has only been a rook for six years, he can't be expected to know much.

"SHOCKING" DATES

He was sitting in the library studying electricity when a maiden came in. She looked about for a place to sit down, where no one would disturb her. Finally, she saw the youth who was disentangling direct currents. He looked at her; then hastily went back to Ohm's Law, amperes, volts, and coulombs.

She started to write a letter. Quite soon she poked her pretty elbow into his ribs. "Pardon me," she said sweetly. He looked at her and sighed; and resolutely went back to his electro-magnetic action.

Silence. Again her dimpled elbow found his ribs. "Pardon me," she whispered sweetly. He smiled. Once more her elbow found his ribs. "Oh, please, pardon me," she exclaimed softly. Her voice tinkled like sleighbells. He blinked, smiled, gasped,—and whispered something in her shell-pink ear.

She tittered.

She finished her letter, sealed it, and smiled at him sweetly. "Would you lend me a stamp."

"Sure—lots of them," he whispered. Together they departed.

WHY I CAME TO COLLEGE

Bernice Witt:

At first my parents thought of sending me to Whitworth college, so that I could be near them in Spokane, but I teased awful hard for a long time, and finally told them how nice the boys were down here at the College, so then they let me come. I play with the fellows a little and the rest of the time I study.

Lowell Schroder:

I entered the College here because I live here and stay at home with papa and mama while I am going to school, and when I get into scraps they can help me out. (That's right, Lowell; just stay by papa and mama until you reach years of discretion.)

Rex Turner:

In seeking an institution of high education my first care was the selection of one whose standards of thought and living were conducive to a high, purer life. In the College Y. M. C. A. I found this atmosphere and unhesitatingly and eagerly packed my few belongings and came here. I joyfully acknowledge that my first surmise has proved to be correct and I have found that every influence in the College has been toward a tendency for furthering the spiritual life of a Christian young man. I may also add that here, in this beautiful spot, I have likewise found a true and congenial helpmate.

Pat Hoon:

I wouldn't have come if I hadn't expected to increase my circle of gentlemen friends. (You are to be congratulated upon having met with such marked success.—Ed.)

Irene Canfield:

You know Helen, my sister, came here before I did, and from what she said I thought W. S. C. must be an exceptionally nice place, so I came, too, and I haven't been disappointed, either. It is the best place for stabbing and pulling I ever struck. Molasses candy isn't in it with the Profs. And then, any girl who halfway tries can be awfully popular with the men here. Anyway, I have a good time and my only regret is that college is only four years long.

Phil Alexander:

Once there was a boy from Spokane who went away to school and when he came home he was so lionized by the girls that I decided to run an opposition to his monopoly, so I came here. I am getting all the experience I possibly can in my dealings with the fair sex. The fellows are green with envy, for they all tell me that the girls like me just awfully well. I can hardly wait until June comes to get home and see what my arrival in town will cause. (Out of the kindness of his heart the editor has sent a note to the young ladies in Mr. Alexander's town.—Ed.)

KITCHEN KAPERS OF KAMPUS DAY

It was KAMPUS DAY. The COOK was in his element. VICTORY was his. The FISHER after spending the morning at the POOLE had returned with 20 FISH but the PRICE was 20,000 RUBLES which STUNed the culinary artist and he gasped "It is too 'HI.'" Then came a PORTER, who, after an all night's HUNT had captured a DOWNIE SWAN. The DUNNING ceased and a bargain was made. Now the COOK was FRANK even though a MISnER and all NOYES was banished from the kitchen. Only the BRAY of the DONkey was heard from the HILL. The COOK dozed, awoke with a start and ejaculated "BYRNEd, but I'll TURNER over so she'll look nice and BROWN. The KROMMs fell from the oven and the loafers playing MARBLES near by devoured them. "What FREAKES," stormed the COOK as he ZENT them outside to play BALL for they could BAT-WELL. Then came the clarion call of the dinner HORN. "I LOVE to eat, now don't WAITE," cried a fair damsel as she hurried along in her BOOTS. "I'm CUMMIN, I'll leave this HICKEY work," HALEd an ARCHER from the WOODS. "This golf course is a FRAME up." Food disappeared SWIFT and everyone declared that they felt WELLER than before. JOHNNY ZAEPFUL pronounced it a very successful KAMPUS DAY.

Kitchen Mechanics' Ball

One of the most successful social affairs of the season was the Kitchen Mechanics' and Laundry Slingers' Ball given at the Grange Warehouse on Saturday evening, April 26. The committee in charge was composed of Phillip Putnam, Pearl Collins, Frank Misner, Helen Stackhouse, and Phil Fridlund. Cakes of soap in the popular hotel size and washboards were the unique favors. As a feature, Harry Isaacs, the danseuse, rendered the dance of the Seven Veils.

Among the beautiful gowns noticed at the affair were:

Zena Rothrock—Faded prune de la whip.

Charlotte Walker—Fatima pink, trimmed with bear skin.

Glenmar Witt—Tomato a la mezzaline, designed by Peter the Great.

Catherine McIntyre—Squab draperies over salmon and tuna shades.

Rusty Campbell was adorable in an initialed sport shirt and birthday sox.

TURNER MISSED THIS MEETING

(Copied from the minutes of an A. S. S. C. W. meeting.)

President Misner called the meeting to order, and asked that all present come forward and sit in the front row. Motion was successfully carried through.

Minutes of previous meeting read and ignored.

President called for report of standing committee—no answer.

Called for report of sitting committees—no answer.

(The A. S. S. C. W. has no lying committees.)

President asked if there were any old business to come before the house—no answer.

Asked if there were any new business. Bill Weisel opened one eye and said, "Yes, thank you, but rather slack because of the fact that it ain't gonna rain no mo'," and resumed his snoring.

President suggested plan for getting larger turnouts for student body meetings. He said that if everyone there would bring six friends with him to the next meeting, and the six friends would each bring six more at the following meeting, etc., that in the course of two or three years, we would be able to fill the entire center section of the auditorium. He is a trifle optimistic.

President asked that we sing the Alma Mater song before adjourning. When we had reached the second verse, a cat sneaked across the stage so noisily that our voices were completely drowned out, so we quit.

The president said that a motion for adjournment was in order. He waited a minute and then repeated his statement. No answer. Waited two minutes and again repeated that a motion to adjourn was in order. Finally, he offered two bits to anyone that would make a motion to adjourn. Leo Lovitt won, but was closely seconded by Harry Jensen, who got fifteen cents for his trouble.

The meeting stood adjourned, but no one budged. Going to the back of the auditorium, the president shouted, "When do we eat!" Two Frosh were killed in the rush for the doors.

OUR OWN INTELLIGENCE TEST

Since Edison broke into opprobrium with his unanswerable intelligence test, every publication of note has followed suit and offered an intellect tester of its own concoction. Not to be outdone by Edison, Einstein, Charters, and others who ask unanswerable questions, the Chinook Wind herewith submits its own idea of an intellect measurer.

One of the features of our test, however, is that we care not in the least whether you are able to answer the questions or not—if you can't, all you have to do is go buy yourself a lemon coke or get a date or something, and forget all about it. A prize of one year's free subscription to the Alwaysverdant is offered to the person showing the least intelligence.

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN IN THIS EMBARRASSING
SITUATION?

Find seven errors in this picture (not counting Tryggvi himself). The first one who hands in the correct solution to the problem will be awarded an autographed copy of Bill Steiner's latest book, "When You're Not Forgotten by the Girl You Got for 'Nottin.'"

THE INFERNAL FEMININE

Gone are the switches by damsels worn
In the good old days of yore,
When the ladies fair did up their hair
With doodads by the score.

"Hooray!" we say, "In this modern day,
The girls have got good sense.
They bob their locks (though some it shocks)
And thus cut down expense."

With tresses shorn the fair ones scorn
The switches and rats and such;
But these modern belles go get marcel,
And it costs them just as much.

Famous Sayings by Infamous People:

"The trouble of the world is women."

WE WONDER:

- Where Prof. Daggy keeps his violin?
How Major Carlock ever got past the grade of sergeant?
How many ties the Roberts brothers own? (c. f. Page 319.)
Where Swan keeps his bottle of hair tonic?
Who will win the "number of engagements announced" contest among the women's houses this year?
If everyone that came over to W. S. C. from the U. of W. really got kicked out of there?
Who owns the pretty sweater at the Kappa Delta House? (c. f. Page 283.)
What becomes of all the snipes left at "Rubberneck Corner," just off the campus?
Why the girls don't watch Mrs. Kimbrough when she leads the Women's Glee Club?

IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY—

Our photographer caught Paddy and Goofus shooting craps in front of the gym, but before he could aim his camera the two old slickers tried to fool him by pretending they were playing marbles—but they can't fool us. The gym was originally intended for limbering up the joints and developing the muscles, but Paddy and Goofus go one better by rolling the bones.

Where

Meet

The graphic for Hotel Gowman features a central portrait of T. H. GOWMAN, Managing Director, wearing glasses and a suit. To the left of the portrait is the word "Hotel" in a large, stylized font, and to the right is "Gowman" in a similar font. Below the portrait are three smaller images: a hotel room with a bed and a lamp, a view of the hotel building from the street, and a hotel lobby with a large arched doorway. The text "Second at Stewart - Seattle" is printed below the building image. The entire advertisement is framed by a decorative border with geometric patterns.

"When good fellows get together" in the "big town," whether at the game, on special visits or at vacation time, this hotel is a center of college festivities.

A hospitable welcome and a chance to mingle among college friends awaits you here whenever you come to Seattle.

T. H. GOWMAN, Managing Director.

ETIQUETTE AT THE STUDENT
MOVIES

First, always arrive in the middle of the picture. This not only establishes you as being socially correct, but serves to call the attentions of others to you, thus increasing your popularity. Ignore the ushers who are entirely beneath your rank, and saunter leisurely down the aisle. If with others, stand halfway down the aisle and argue about where you shall sit. Choose a seat next to the opposite aisle, and walk in front of a whole row of people to reach it. If they are not polite enough to keep their feet out of your way, step upon them soundly, then stand in front of them and profusely beg their pardon. This never fails to make an impression.

After you have reached your seat, be sure you are entirely comfortable before observing the picture. Always kick the hat out from under the seat of the man in front of you. This immediately establishes a spirit of good fellowship. Upon the appearance of the star tell your neighbor the latest choice bit of scandal about him or her. Never fail to read the subtitles aloud and encourage others to read them in unison with you. There may be a blind man in the audience and he will appreciate it. Always laugh when the hero or heroine is dying. This shows you are brave in the face of danger.

If you know the story try to keep at least 200 feet ahead of the film and loud enough that all can hear you. When the villain stealthily approaches the hero, inform the latter of the fact, calling him by his own first name. The audience knows at once that you are an intimate acquaintance of the actor. Whistle during the overture, thus displaying your musical knowledge and ability. When ready to leave, stand at your seat to put on your overcoat.

Try to memorize these few rules, or, if time prohibits, cut them out and carry along for reference. You will be surprised at how soon you will acquire a reputation for your behavior at the movies.

IN RETROSPECT

It's three o'clock in the morning. The low voiced fusser on the back porch just outside our window has long since departed, and the night watchman has just made his last round. As we pen the last of the 482 pages that are to contain the record of the activities of W. S. C. for another year, we can not help but pause a moment in retrospect.

We have enjoyed very much the privilege of compiling the volume which you have in your hand. We hope the record it contains is a true one; we hope that it is presented in an interesting way; and above all we hope that it gives honor where honor is due.

To those who have assisted in putting out the 1925 Chinook, we owe a debt which we will never be able to fully repay. To the twenty different department editors and the eighty staff assistants; to Mr. Fred Wiman of the Western Engraving and Colortype Company; to Mr. R. E. Shipley and Mr. W. A. McMahon of the Inland-American Printing Company; to Mr. C. E. Graves, Mr. Frank Guilbert, Mr. Myron Huckle and Mr. J. R. Stephenson, photographers, and to Mr. T. J. O'Day of the College Print Shop, we owe a large debt of service.

‡ ‡ ‡ ‡

As a theme for the book we have chosen the "Hello Tradition," as typifying the democratic spirit that exists on W. S. C.'s campus. We did this because we believe it is the biggest asset the State College possesses. We believe that the things growing out of "that spirit of friendliness" here at school constitutes the most vital thing that we will take away with us from our "college on the hill."

‡ ‡ ‡ ‡

Oftentimes, when the press of things has been the greatest, we liked to pause for a moment, and imagine ourselves beside the figure in the clouds in the picture before page 25. And as we look down and see two thousand students hurrying to class, getting ready for a social engagement, hastily eating their dinner, or waiting impatiently to be served at the Students' Store, we wonder what it is all about. And then we wonder if any of the students themselves, ever pause to ponder on what it is all about. We wonder if any of them have time, in the mad rush after the obvious things of college life, to know what they are really after in these four years—if they have time to select the real from that which glitters. And, finally, we wonder if the petty factional strife and jealousies on the campus will seem quite so important to us twenty years from now as they do at the present time. A foolish and useless bit of wondering perhaps, but—who among us is not given to day dreaming once in a while?

THE EDITOR.
